

State aerospace employment climbs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Aerospace employment in California rose last month for the first time in three years, state officials said Friday, but the state's overall unemployment rate stayed at 7 per cent.

The aerospace industry — especially the aircraft section — accounted for 2,700 of the 68,000 increase in the number of employed persons. Aerospace jobs totaled 436,600 in August.

Reagan administration officials had no immediate explanation for the aerospace job increase.

The national unemployment rate bounced up again last month to 6.1 per cent, or 5.1 million jobless persons, just before President Nixon changed economic course.

The Democratic Party and AFL-CIO President George Meany said the figures show that Nixon's old policies failed and that his new ones are flawed.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said the figures were a perplexing mix of good news and bad, and called for Congress to enact the President's proposed tax cuts to stimulate the economy.

The jobless rate was about 3.5 per cent of the work force during the first months of Nixon's administration. It has hovered around 6 per cent since hitting a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent last December and again in May. It was 5.8 per cent in July.

Total employment in California reached 8.15 million. The number of unemployed fell by 24,000 to 607,000.

Nixon trade challenge 'Through competing hand tied'

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Nixon wound up a mammoth dinner party of 25,000 dairymen and their wives Friday night with pledges that from now on the United States is through trying to compete economically with other nations "with one hand tied behind our back."

The crowd at Chicago's mammoth, glass-plated McCormick Place had swelled to 40,000 delegates to the Associated Milk Producers Inc. convention when Nixon strode into the seven-acre hall on the lake front.

He stopped at both Dayton, Ohio, where he dedicated a $5.7-million Air Force Museum and Chicago on his way back to Washington from a two-week working vacation at San Clemente.

He spoke for half an hour, his voice ringing against the huge glass windows rising almost three stories high.

Nixon warned that America's generosity to other nations in years past had left it at a competitive economic disadvantage and said his new economic policies were aimed at changing the unfavorable international trade situation that has drained the United States for the last quarter of a century.

"At this time when other nations are on their feet, when they are our competitors, it's time for the United States to quit trying to compete with one hand tied behind our back," Nixon said.

The irony of America's situation now is that it helped create it by assisting both allies and former enemies in rebuilding after World War II, Nixon said.

"Now they are strong, vigorous and competitive... let us see that as far as trade is concerned, it is a two-way street."

Nixon turned up late for the dinner, which was billed as the biggest ever held anywhere under one roof.

But he showed his usual empathy for audiences from rural America, departing sharply from his text in what appeared to be his sternest warning yet to international competitors that he wanted some concessions from them before eliminating the 10 per cent import surcharge which he ordered Aug. 15.

"I can say to you that by all odds this is the biggest convention and the biggest indoor crowd I've ever seen in my life," Nixon said.

The President traced what he termed the chang-

State headed for deficit

Reagan to seek new taxes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state will have to come up with $100 million to $125 million in new or increased taxes plus payroll withholding of state income taxes to stay out of the red, Gov. Reagan said Friday.

But Reagan insisted that any new tax money be used only for balancing the state budget — not for new programs. "I am unalterably opposed to new spending funded by increased taxes," he said.

Reagan also said a statewide school property tax "would have to be one of the possibilities" resulting from a State Supreme Court decision that reliance on property taxes to finance schools is unconstitutional.

"I think we'll find some way to equalize the tax base and still allow those districts that want to luxuriate a little to do so," the Republican governor told an impromptu news conference after a speech to the 45th annual State Fair Host Breakfast.

"I am concerned that you're going to try to equalize by limiting how far districts can go" in providing educational extras, Reagan said.

Reagan publicly pinned down the state's higher tax needs for the first time in his breakfast speech to about 750 top California businessmen. Such an amount had been put forth earlier by fiscal experts in his administration but not by the governor himself.

Increased taxes wouldn't be needed if he had gotten all the welfare reforms he wanted, Reagan said, instead of the compromise bill worked out in weeks-long negotiations with Democratic legislative leaders.

"The result of not getting the total reforms we wanted leaves about $100 to $125 million which must be raised by new or increased taxes," Reagan said. "I am hopeful that will be the total amount—meaning I am hoping the legislature will adopt withholding."

Imposition of payroll withholding would create a one-time revenue windfall of about $200 million that could wipe out the state's $330 million budget deficit if coupled to the additional taxes, administration financial officials say.

Reagan said it is still undecided which taxes would be increased—but the administration is known to be considering boosts in cigarette, liquor and horse race betting levies.

Reagan minimized the effect of the higher taxes to newsmen, saying, "In a budget the size of ours, it doesn't have much of an impact."

The state budget this year totals $6.79 billion.

Reagan, sometimes mentioned as a potential rival to President Nixon in next year's elections, plugged for support of the President's wage-price freeze and tax on imports in his speech.

"Let us hope that our friends overseas will be cooperative and understanding if after a generation of economic self sacrifice in their behalf we indulge in a little economic self-interest," he said. "Many Americans think it is high time we quit playing Uncle Sugar and went back to being Uncle Sam."

7 killed in family fued

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Seven persons, three adults and four young children, were shot to death in a modest frame house Friday night by a gunman armed with two .38 caliber revolvers in what was apparently the bloody climax of a family argument, police reported.

The dead were not immediately identified.

A suspected killer—who tried to shoot himself—was in custody, police said. He was wounded twice.

NEIGHBORS said they believed most of the dead were young children, at least three of them under six years of age.

3 slashed in scuffle

Jetliner hijacking foiled

MIAMI (AP) — A young refugee who said he was worried about his mother in Cuba attempted to hijack an Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 jetliner to Havana Friday but was overpowered by airline employees and passengers. The man slashed three persons with a sharpened screwdriver during the scuffle, the FBI said.

The hijacker, identified as Juan Miguel Borges Guerra, was tied up and turned over to FBI agents when the plane landed here. The three stabbed men, all Eastern crewmen riding as passengers, were treated for minor wounds.

THE FBI said the plane was near the end of its flight from Chicago when Borges put the sharpened screwdriver to the throat of stewardess Lana Dahlstrom.

The weapon was identified earlier as an ice pick. Mrs. Dahlstrom, who suffered a wrenched arm, said Borges complained the airlift was shut down and he wanted to rejoin his family on the Communist island. Premier Fidel Castro said Tuesday he planned to discontinue the twice-a-day "freedom flights."

"I said 'Okay, we'll go to Cuba,' and he said, 'I'll kill you. I don't care whether I live or die,'" the 30-year-old stewardess recalled.

Mrs. Dahlstrom said the hijacker told her his family was still in Cuba but she learned through another airline employee that the man's mother was ill.

"HE SAID he hated the United States and then he said something about they had killed his parents," she said. "I didn't understand that, I don't know why it was said."

Among the injured was Capt. Newt Edwards who received lacerations on his left wrist.

There were 80 people aboard the flight. Kenneth Whittaker, special agent in charge of the FBI at Miami, said the attempt took place about 20 minutes outside of Miami International Airport on EAL Flight 993.

He said Borges Guerra, 20, of Rockford, Ill., was charged with air piracy and held in lieu of $500,000 bond pending a Sept. 10 hearing.

An Eastern spokesman said the jet, carrying 74 passengers and six crewmen, was about 20 miles out of Miami when the would-be hijacker put the weapon to the throat of stewardess Dahlstrom and demanded she tell the pilot, Capt. Roger Gustafson, they go to Havana.

AS THE MESSAGE was relayed to Gustafson, members of the deadheading employees — crewmembers flying back to home base following a flight assignment — jumped the young hijacker and wrestled him to the floor. Two passengers also got into the action, said Bill Wooten, the EAL spokesman.

Wooten said deadheading second officer Bob Thomas suffered a stab wound in the right leg and Capt. Joe Trapnell was wounded in the leg and arm. Neither Thomas, Trapnell nor anyone else was injured seriously. All were treated at a Miami hospital and released.

Borges Guerra also was treated although he had not been injured seriously, Wooten said. He said the young refugee was tied up and turned over to the FBI when the plane landed at Miami International Airport, just moments after the attempt.

After the incident, Capt. Edwards asked if the hijacking suspect was hurt. "I hope we didn't hurt him," he said.

"There was no superhero involved in it at all," he said. "We were more than willing to go to Havana but didn't want the stewardesses' life jeopardized... so we jumped him."

Wooten said as far as he knew, no federal marshals were aboard the flight.

"If they were," he said, "they were not in evidence."

WOOTEN said Borges Guerra told FBI agents that he was "worried about my mother" and that his nerves were shot. He said the agents told him Borges Guerra had ar-

Tanker sinks in Pacific; all but 2 crewmen saved

HONOLULU (UPI) — A 10,000-ton Panamanian tanker broke in half and a boiler explosion ripped through the stern before the ship sank in the north Pacific Ocean, the Coast Guard reported Friday. Two crewmen were missing.

The tanker Aaron sailed from Berth 187, Port of Los Angeles Aug. 11 bound for Hawaii. It is operated by the California Molasses Co. Salen-Intercoastal of Long Beach is the agent for the ship.

The ship broke up on the high seas Thursday night 1,100 miles northeast of Midway. She was bound for Yokohama, Japan.

Thirty survivors were picked up by the Liberian freighter Spruce Woods. The Coast Guard said all were suffering from acid burns in varying degrees, and one man, suffering severe lacerations, was in critical condition.

The crew members were all reported to be from The Philippines.

The Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain, stationed about 50 miles away, rendezvoused with the Spruce Woods and put a doctor and a hospital corpsman aboard. The Spruce Woods headed for Midway with the survivors, while the Pontchartrain searched for the missing men.

An all-ships' broadcast was issued by the Coast Guard for vessels passing through the area to keep a lookout for the missing crewmen and possible debris.

The Coast Guard said all but five crewmen abandoned ship when the Aaron, carrying a load of molasses, acid, tar, oil and gas, broke up and the forward section sank. About an hour later, the boiler explosion occurred.

THREE CREWMEN were picked out of the water. The others made it into two life boats and the Spruce Woods, 25 miles away, picked up radio transmissions from the boats, notified the Coast Guard, and proceeded to rescue the survivors.

The Aaron, whose Hawaii agent is Hawaii Freight Lines, stopped in the islands last month to pick up additional fuel. Her last port of call was Hilo, from where she departed Aug. 24.

George Over, president of Hawaii Freight Lines, said he had no idea what would cause the ship to break in half.

He said the vessel was built in 1951 and owned by California Molasses of San Diego. The ship was checked for cargo handling capability while she was in Honolulu, Over said.

He said the crewmen would probably be flown to Honolulu from Midway and then arrangements would be made to get them home.

Over identified the captain as Gantingpala P. Barrera and the chief mate as Olimpio A. Pitpit.

He said the ship was 533 feet long, 63 feet wide and registered in Panama.

Mountain fire runs wild

A brush fire burned out of control Friday in the Angeles National Forest near Sunland.

It started about 2 p.m. and burned more than 100 acres in the first two hours. A U.S. Forest Service spokesman would not estimate when the blaze would be controlled.

A Forest Service spokesman said that weather conditions at the fire were holding favorably, with very little wind.

Meanwhile the National Weather Service forecast continued sunny and slightly warmer weather over the weekend with gusty northerly winds up to 25 m.p.h. in the mountains and deserts.

The forecast called for highs of 70s at the beaches, high 80s in the upper coastal valleys, 70s in the mountains, 80s and 90s in the higher desert valleys and up to 100 in the lower desert.

Reagan hints dock accord

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negotiators in the 65-day West Coast dock strike met Friday in prolonged separate sessions as Gov. Reagan reported he was told "in the past 24 hours" that some sort of break may come in the long ship-ping tieup.

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin earlier reported agreement on a truce plan for settling the crucial cargo container jurisdiction issue.

Meanwhile, a scheduled joint bargaining session was postponed three times before starting Friday afternoon.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association both refused any comment on Regan's report in a Sacramento speech of a possible break in the strike.

They likewise refused any comment on the Hawaii newspaper's report that the PMA and ILWU had agreed on a plan to settle the container jurisdiction dispute between the dock workers and the Teamsters Union.

ILWU and PMA spokesmen have reported agreement that any wage boosts won for longshoremen in a new contract should be exempted from President Nixon's wage-price freeze order.

Miriam Wolff, San Francisco's port director, declared the strike's economic effects "very devastating." She estimated the Port of San Francisco's own revenue losses at more than $600,000 since the 15,000 ILWU dock workers walked out July 1 in 24 West Coast ports.

In Sacramento, Paul Beck, Reagan's press secretary, said Reagan had been told in the last 24 hours that the dock strike negotiations were making progress.

ILWU President Harry Bridges, who has attacked Nixon's freeze order as unfair to workers, declared this week he was sure the President would approve the terms of a new dock contract.

Bombs also hit a betting shop and grocery store.

First for Japan, emperor

TOKYO — Japan's cabinet appropriated $595,000 Friday to pay for the first trip abroad by an emperor in Japan's history. Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako will tour Europe Sept. 27-Oct. 13, with a stopover in Alaska during which Hirohito will confer with President Nixon. ### Concorde pilot confident

TOULOUSE — Andre Turcat, chief test pilot of the French version of the Concorde airliner, said Friday the plane's first trans-Atlantic flight today will be risky, but he is confident he will make it to Latin America and back without incident. ## 'An end to all cold wars'

WASHINGTON — Washington hailed the signing of a new agreement on the status of Berlin Friday and described it as an historic step that could lead to the settlement of all cold war disputes. It was the first Berlin agreement on the city's status since 1945 and was designed to end the East-West confrontation that has made the divided city a perennial trouble spot. The agreement spelled out for the first time the Western right of access to the city, accepted West Berlin's ties to West Germany, and opened the wall for West Berliners. In return, the Russians won the right to establish a general consulate in West Berlin, a ban on West Berlin becoming a state of the West German Federal Republic, and a limitation on West German political activity.

Wallace plans new challenge

MONTGOMERY — Alabama Gov. George Wallace was reported Friday planning to personally transfer seven white students from an otherwise all-black school next week in another challenge of court-ordered integration "if something is not worked out" by school officials. A federal judge told the school board involved that the order would stand. Vaughn Hill Robison, a Montgomery County School Board attorney, said U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Johnson, who devised the desegregation plan for the county, advised the board he expected it to abide by the court orders. Robison said the board had no choice but to obey.

Red China seat closer

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William Rogers Friday defended an FBI U.S. might support a move favored by many members of the United Nations to give Communist China a seat on the powerful Security Council. He told a news conference that the administration during the past month had canvassed about 90 other governments, "and we do find there is a good deal of support for having the Security Council seat go to the Peoples Republic of China."

2,394 Italian divorces

ROME — Italian courts granted 2,394 divorces in the first six months since divorce became legal in this Roman Catholic country. The figure is lower than had been anticipated before the controversial law was approved by Parliament in December. Opponents of divorce have gathered enough signatures to force a nationwide referendum seeking to repeal the law, which is the first of its kind since Italy became a unified nation 100 years ago.

Red mortars kill civilians

SAIGON Saturday — Communists fired 15 mortar shells into a Saigon suburb today killing two civilians and wounding 23 others, the South Vietnamese command reported. A command communiqué said Communists hidden in surrounding jungles fired 82 MM mortars into "a populated area" of Duc Hoa, 16 miles northwest of Saigon. The U.S. command said two American Air Force F405 fighter bombers roared into North Vietnam Friday night and blasted a Communist anti-aircraft site.

CALCUTTA — Floods that swept away entire villages left 10 million homeless Friday as new areas of West Bengal came under water, India officials reported. ### Draft board raiders

PHILADELPHIA — The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Friday said 15 of the 28 persons indicted for a raid on the Camden, N.J., draft board office could go free if they post 10 per cent of their bail. ### Buckley blisters Lindsay

HOUSTON — Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., said Friday New York Mayor John Lindsay has made a wasteland of the nation's largest city and would do the same to the country if he were president. "Lindsay is a liberal leader too representative of the disease of our time," Buckley said in his first major criticism of his fellow New Yorker who last month switched from the Republican to the Democratic Party. Buckley told the Young Americans for Freedom national convention that "the persistence of the liberal myth in the face of devastating failure is nowhere better illustrated than in my own backyard."

Rogers defends probe

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William Rogers Friday defended an FBI lie-detector probe for the source of a suspected news leak and indicated the State Department was found innocent. # Eva Peron 'returned' to husband

Combined Wire Services

The remains of Eva Peron, hidden for 16 years, were turned over Friday to her husband, former Argentine dictator Juan Peron.

A spellbinding political leader in her own right, Mrs. Peron died of leukemia in 1952, three years before a military coup toppled Peron's regime. Her body, which disappeared shortly after the 1955 coup, was delivered Friday to Peron's exile residence in Madrid.

An announcement in Buenos Aires and Madrid said Argentina's ambassador delivered the body. Informants here said it was brought from Rome in a hearse.

Argentina's governments since the Peron era had not revealed the location of Mrs. Peron's body, possibly for fear it would be used as a rallying point for pro-Peron and antigovernment elements. But Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, the country's current military president, has been reported to want conciliation with Peron and his still-powerful political movement.

Sources among Peron's followers in Madrid said the return of the remains to Peron could be an important step toward national unity in Argentina. It was not known immediately where the remains would be interned.

Eva Peron was an actress in her teens and early 20s, then became influential in politics as the dictator's wife. She was 33 when she died on July 26, 1952.

After Peron's fall from power, her body was stolen from the headquarters of the Argentine General Confederation of Workers in Buenos Aires. Union members were and still are strong Peron supporters.

Some reports said the body was taken to a cemetery near Rome and buried under a false name.

TRASH RETURNED TO FREELOADERS

A Connecticut family which spent its vacation camping in Wyoming's Big Horn mountains will soon be getting a reminder of that visit in the mail.

Rancher Vic Garber let the family — which he did not identify — camp on his ranch. When they left, Garber was happy to see the camp area was left clean and neat. Then he discovered the family had simply tossed its trash and litter over the fence onto property of a neighboring rancher.

Garber gathered it all, found the family's address on a discarded envelope, and mailed the trash to their Connecticut home.

Hugo Black

Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, at 85 the senior member of the nation's highest tribunal, has been a patient at Bethesda Naval Hospital for about a week. But neither the hospital nor his office would say why Friday. Black, born Feb. 27, 1896, in Clay County, Ala., is the third oldest Supreme Court justice in history and would break the record for length of service if he is still on the bench next March. Black, appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, took his oath on Aug. 19, 1937 — 34 years and 15 days ago.

The longevity record is held by Stephen Field, who served for 34 years, 6 months and 11 days after taking his seat in 1863. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who retired at 90, and Chief Justice Roger Taney, who died in office at 87, are the only two Supreme Court justices who served at an older age than Black.

Soviet Visit

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin will visit Norway and Denmark in December in the first visit by a Soviet premier since Nikita Khrushchev's in 1964, the Norwegian and Danish governments announced Friday.

Meyer Lansky

Reputed Mafia chieftain Meyer Lansky disclaimed any knowledge of organized crime in the U.S. Friday night and denied a report he had helped President Nixon get elected. In a rare television interview Lansky said he was the victim of public persecution in the U.S., adding, "it would be terribly hard for me to get a fair trial" there.

Lansky, 69, has lived in Israel on an extended tourist visa for more than a year. He told the interviewer he wanted to become an Israeli citizen and stay here "like any other retired Jew." Officials said a decision on Lansky's application for citizenship will be reached in a few weeks.

In reply to a question Lansky said, "I have no knowledge of organized crime in the United States."

CMA sees possible L.A. pollution disaster

By GIL BAILEY
Contributing Editor

An air pollution disaster could occur in Los Angeles, the California Medical Association has warned.

In a special position paper authored by Dr. Hurley L. Motley, chairman of the scientific advisory committee of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District, and by Dr. Gershen L. Schaefer, the association warned, "Air pollution constitutes a dangerous menace to health in man."

However, the CMA noted, "A disaster is less likely to occur in Los Angeles than in other areas in the U.S. where sulphur oxides pollution is greater.

But the doctors pointed out Los Angeles air pollution creates its own hazards.

"Environmental pollutants increase airway resistance, impair the uniformity of air distribution in the lungs, interfere with oxygen transport and disturb cellular structure. Eye irritation is experienced."

"During periods of heavy air pollution, strenuous exertion should be avoided, especially by school children and people with respiratory and cardiac disease."

THE MEDICAL association is forwarding its official warning, the strongest yet from any medical group, to all state legislators and air pollution control officials.

"The CMA in the interest of public welfare, for the mental and physical health of all those who live in this polluted environment, strongly recommends that urgent recognition be given to the fact that we are living in a state of chronic and increasing emergency, that the ability to breathe pure air is a right and not a luxury," the association said.

There is urgent need for the development of efficient, rapid mass transit," it added. "Strong support should be given to all measures or measures to start to finance a rapid mass transit system."

The association said. "The general public should be better informed on all the facts and on the needs for a rapid mass transit system. Such a system will not cure the air pollution problem, but rapid transit will provide some substantial relief in the near future and increasing relief as such systems are expanded in the future."

The association also pointed out, "In an area such as the Los Angeles Basin, the air supply is limited. The air supply appears to be a more limiting factor for future growth in Los Angeles County than the water supply."

It urged, "Chambers of Commerce in the basin's cities should concern themselves less with increased population and more with improving the quality of life for their present and future residents."

Finally, the CMA concluded, "Efforts to date to control atmospheric contaminants are visibly and obviously inadequate."

Down the drain

Q. Three times a week, I drive past the intersection of California Avenue and Wardlow Road and I always see water gushing down the gutters on Wardlow. It seems sinful to waste thousands of gallons of precious water. I never have been able to trace its source. Can ACTION LINE find out if there is a leak in the city's water system? L.M., Long Beach.

A. With the help of the Signal Hill Public Works Department and the Long Beach Water Department, ACTION LINE found out that the water comes from automobile agencies and a heavy equipment manufacturer in that area, and not from any municipal source. The water is used to wash the cars and equipment. A spokesman for the Signal Hill Public Works Department said that he would ask the companies if they possibly could use less water.

Insecure

Q. It is my understanding that when a person retires on Social Security, he is allowed to earn about $1600 a year without losing any of his benefits. Is the same true for a person who retires early? I would like to retire so that I can take care of my three children, but I will need to earn some extra money to support them. If I can't do this, I will have to place my children in a foster home. H.P., Los Alamitos.

A. The $1,680 limit on yearly earnings still applies if you retire early. A man can retire early at 62 and a woman at 60, but your benefits are reduced if you retire early. If you earn more than $1,680, some of your monthly Social Security payments will be withheld, but the money you earn may be enough to increase your benefit rate. If so, the increase will take effect when you reach age 65.

Code

Q. The city of Garden Grove recently codified its municipal ordinances and had them printed in a two volume edition published by a company in Seattle, Wash. Were all local printing companies provided a chance to obtain this business? Did the city ask for local bids? R.L.N., Garden Grove.

A. The city solicited bids only from those companies listed in their files as doing recodification work, and some of those companies were local firms, according to a spokesman for the Garden Grove city clerk's office. She explained that the contract was not merely for printing the laws, but also for recodifying them. The Seattle firm submitted the lowest bid.

Write on

Q. Recently I read an article about Operation Identification, started by Monterey Park Police Department, urging citizens to engrave their driver's license numbers on the backs of valuable objects. Supposedly, this helps the police to identify stolen goods and return them to you more easily. Where can I buy an electric engraving pencil like those described in the story? R.G.L., Long Beach.

A. Electric engraving pencils are available for about $15 at Imperial Hardware Co., 437 Long Beach Blvd. and at the Long Beach Hardware Co., 3012 Long Beach Blvd.

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number—not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column—but to help ACTION LINE help you. Include pertinent information but please don't send original documents or pictures that you want returned.

The volume of mail makes it impossible to answer or acknowledge every question. Each question, however, is carefully read and considered. Because of the delay in transcribing telephone messages recorded on ACTION LINE's special number, 432-3451, mail requests often receive prompter attention than phone calls.

Persons seeking information contained in past ACTION LINE items may visit the newspapers' library, Room 208, The Independent, Press-Telegram Building, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays for help. Phone calls to ACTION LINE through the regular Independent, Press-Telegram switchboard will not be put through.

Jail break suspect is arraigned

A Long Beach man, who escaped from the Downey jail Monday and was captured three days later, was arraigned in Downey Municipal Court Friday on six felony counts.

Olen Thibedeau Jr., 29, is charged with assault with a deadly weapon, attempted murder, carrying a gun although an ex-convict, and escaping from the Downey jail. In another case, he is accused of failing to appear in court on weapons and assault charges.

A PRELIMINARY hearing has been set for Sept. 13 at 1:30 p.m.

Thibedeau was arrested Monday morning after police said he fired shots at Ronald Withey of 13028 Downey Ave., Apt. 11. Officers said the two men and Withey's former wife were involved in a marital triangle.

Thibedeau became the first person to escape from the Downey jail when he punched a hole in the ceiling of his cell, crawled through an attic and out an air vent.

Todd strikers ratify new pact

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A new three year contract which emphasizes safety procedures and an employee voice in working conditions was ratified Friday by union shipbuilders who work for Todd Shipyards in San Pedro.

The International Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, Local 9, voted 434 to 194 in favor of the agreement, which had been reached in negotiations since the shipworkers struck July 28.

About 500 shipworkers were employed at Todd then, but the firm says that between 1,600 and 2,000 are affected by the new contract. The striking workers will return to work Tuesday.

There were no salary issues in the negotiations because the shipbuilders' pay hikes are set in Seattle negotiations by the Metal Trades Union.

The main issue at Todd was working conditions.

"If that hadn't been settled, we'd still be out," said M.B. Burns, a union negotiator.

He said that the union won a better safety and sanitation program and, even more important, the muscle to back up complaints about working conditions.

More safety provisions are written into the contract, he said, and workers with safety complaints can go over their supervisors heads, all the way to federal officials, if necessary.

No trace of My Lai document

FT. MEADE, Md. (P)—A "page-by-page" search of Army files in Vietnam failed to uncover a document defense lawyers claim would knock down a charge that Col. Oran K. Henderson covered up the My Lai massacre, a colonel who participated in the search testified Friday.

Col. Thomas F. Whalen, who was part of a Pentagon inquiry into the handling of reports of the March 16, 1968, massacre, said he found no trace of a report said to have been prepared by the late Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker.

Barker, who was Henderson's executive officer, was killed in a helicopter crash in June 1968.

The whereabouts of the report is the subject of a special hearing being held concurrently with the court-martial of Henderson.

Lakewood man admits slaying El Toro Marine

A 22-year-old Lakewood man Friday confessed to voluntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of an El Toro marine.

Guy Austin Coover, of 2440 Yearling St., entered the guilty plea before Long Beach Superior Court Judge Roy J. Brown, who set Sept. 24 for the probation hearing and sentencing.

The defendant is charged with killing Richard Thomas, 21, of 35 E. Morning-side St., with a .45-caliber automatic last June 20.

The victim's estranged wife, Jan. 19, and Coover told police that the shooting was precipitated when Thomas broke into an apartment at 5579 Langport Ave. where they were sleeping. They said the marine attacked Coover with a kitchen knife after Coover ordered him outside at gunpoint.

No freeze

Pastor Robert Nagle of the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Norwood, Pa. reminds one and all that the presidential freeze on wages has its limitations.

2 airlines set merger accord

NEW YORK (AP) — Northwest Airlines and National Airlines announced Friday that they had reached agreement in principle on merger plans.

A spokesman for National Airlines said the merger would remain subject to adoption of a definitive agreement by directors of both lines as well as approval by stockholders and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Terms of the merger call for one share of National Airlines stock to be exchanged for 0.85 share of Northwest, West Coast, spokesman said.

NO VALUE was immediately placed on the proposed transaction.

Donald W. Nyrop, president of Northwest, said National would be merged into Northwest, which is the nation's seventh largest air carrier and serves the Northwest, West Coast, Alaska and the Far East.

However, when told of Nyrop's statement that Northwest would be the surviving carrier, a National spokesman declined to comment.

Moments earlier the National spokesman read a statement saying, "the final decision has not been made as to whether the existing corporations will be consolidated into a new corporation or one of the existing corporations into the other."

HE SAID the tentative agreement called for formation of a new corporation with Nyrop being named president and chief executive and National president L.B. Maytag becoming chairman of the board. Dudley Swim, National's board chairman, was to have been named chairman of the new corporation's executive committee.

National, which was crippled by a five-month strike of the Airline Employees Association in 1970, reported a loss of $3,893,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30. It blamed the loss on the strike and lagging economic conditions.

Nyrop said the proposed merger would provide many of the advantages Northwest would have gained had it been successful in merging with Northeast Airlines. He said the merger would give Northwest access to National's routes along the East Coast as well as a Miami-London flight operated by National.

Merged, the two airlines would have combined revenues of $775 million a year, Nyrop said. Northwest made a profit of $44.3 million in 1970.

AIRLINES officials declined to estimate when a definitive merger agreement might be submitted to the CAB, which already is considering three other proposed air carrier mergers.

Fed seeking bank interest rate data

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has asked 300 of its member banks to supply detailed information on interest rates they charged just before and after President Nixon's order freezing wages, prices, and rents.

In a letter sent to the selected banks last week, Chairman Arthur F. Burns said the board believes sweeping controls on interest rates are not necessary.

Market interest rates have been declining recently and our banks can be expected to conduct their affairs voluntarily in the spirit of the President's program," Burns wrote.

BUT THE letter created a stir in the banking industry, where the realization is strong that the government could slap controls on interest rates if Nixon decided to invoke the Credit Control Act. In that case the Federal Reserve would administer the controls.

Nixon's 90-day freeze order excluded interest rates, a move that has brought heavy criticism from organized labor. The government says controlling interest rates could dry up a needed source of money.

The Federal Reserve letter, dated Aug. 25, was sent to 150 of the largest and 150 of the smallest member banks.

"It was just for informational purposes," a board spokesman said.

"We don't collect this information on a regular basis."

THE BOARD sought information on interest rates covering 13 types of loans in five categories: commercial and industrial, construction, mortgages, farm production, and consumer loans.

Accompanying the letter were forms to be filled out for the weeks that ended Aug. 14 and Aug. 28. Nixon announced his new economic program Aug. 15.

The board asked for information on the highest and lowest interest rates charged, the typical rate, and the average rate on risky loans.

HE NOTED that "There has been some discussion" whether interest rates should be included in the freeze and added: "We at the Federal Reserve have taken the position that such a sweeping limitation is unnecessary." Burns said he may be seeking similar information from the banks in the months ahead.

Freeze sparks auto-buying spree

U.S. car sales 20% ahead of last year

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. new car sales boomed in the final 10 days of August, described by industry observers as the first real testing ground of car buyers' reaction to President Nixon's wage-price controls.

Sales reports of the four domestic auto firms—General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors — showed sales ran about 20 per cent ahead of those in the final days of August, 1970.

Foreign car makers also shared in the sales surge as many — including Volkswagen, Toyota, Datsun, British-Leland and Mercedes-Benz — grabbed off a larger number of sales.

The 10-day reports by the American auto makers had been awaited eagerly by industry observers as a tipoff on consumers' car buying plans during the Nixon economic control period.

A small percentage of the U.S. cars were brand new 1972's, hot off Detroit's assembly lines as the new model year got underway. The rest were from the more than a million 1971's still in dealer hands.

American Motors reported its late August sales were up over five per cent and said it was due in part to the company's initiative in the federal excise tax field in the wake of Nixon's Aug. 14 announcement that he would seek repeal of the seven per cent tax.

"There has been a decided increase in dealer floor traffic as the result of our announcement that American Motors will rebate the full amount of the excise tax on all new 1971 passenger cars and Jeep vehicles sold after Aug. 15," said R. William McNeely, AMC vice president of marketing.

He said, "Our decision to refund the tax even though Congress has not as yet acted to repeal the tax, was met with great acceptance by our dealers and the public."

The 10-day sales reports showed U.S. car makers sold 223,230 new cars in the final 10-days of August compared with 185,735 in the same period a year ago. For all of August, new American built cars sold totaled 585,440 compared with 525,729 a year ago.

Sales comparisons with the foreign cars were a bit difficult since they report on a monthly basis and do not break out any 10-day figures.

Report prepared for U.S. panel Scientists see TV violence as action guide to children

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Increasing scientific evidence suggests that children are using violence on television as "a partial guide for their own actions," researchers for a government study reported Friday.

"As a result, the present entertainment of the television medium may be contributing, in some measure, to the aggressive behavior of many normal children," they said. "Such an effect has now been shown in a wide variety of situations."

The findings were contained in a summary of a report prepared for the U.S. Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Television and Social Behavior. The entire report has not been made public yet.

The summary by two psychology professors — Robert M. Liebert of the State University of New York and Robert A. Baron of Purdue University — was released at the annual American Psychological Association convention now under way in Washington.

The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence concluded last year that violence on television encourages real violence, especially by children in poor or disorganized families. But the Liebert-Baron summary said average youngsters appeared to show similar patterns.

"At least under some circumstances, repeated exposure to televised aggression can lead children to accept what hitherto they have seen as a partial guide for their own actions," the professors said. "The weight of the evidence to date would seem to represent real progress in determining the effect of violence upon youngsters."

Another report issued at the APA meeting offered a similar conclusion. But it cautioned that "suggestions for direct controls on violent media programming would appear to be scientifically questionable and, to say the least, premature."

Two University of Wisconsin researchers agreed in still a third report that "several recent field studies funded by the National Institute of Mental Health appear to indicate some correlation between heavy viewing of television violence and the tendencies to behave aggressively."

But the authors of this third study, Steven H. Chaffee and Jack M. McLeod, specialists in the communications field, said there was no clear evidence "whether control over violent TV content would have socially beneficial effects or possible harmful side effects."

Dr. Eli A. Rubenstein, vice chairman of the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee, said "each one of these reports will be taken into consideration" by the time the panel submits its report, scheduled for completion by year's end. But he said the committee will be working from a total of 23 studies prepared under the $1-million program.

Study equates IQs of races 124,000 pupils from 6 ethnic groups tested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two psychologists, describing independently conducted studies, reported Friday there is little if any difference in the intelligence and academic achievement test scores between various minority-group and white students — when social and environmental factors are taken into account.

The studies together involved more than 124,000 grade school students representing other American Indian, Mexican-American, Puerto Rican, Negro, Oriental or white racial-ethnic groups.

THE REPORTS were presented to the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association by D. George W. Mayeske of the U.S. Office of Education; and Dr. Jane R. Mercer, department of sociology, University of California at Riverside.

The reported findings clash sharply with the theory of Nobel Laureate Dr. William Shockley that Negroes are less intelligent as a race — that is, by heredity — than whites.

The new reports were presented at an APA symposium directed by Dr. Edward J. Casvantes of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights who commented: "This new evidence from two separate and independent studies is the strongest ever presented documenting that environmental and social factors affect (I.Q. and academic) achievement test scores. "Many social scientists have always felt that there was no basic intellectual differences between racial and ethnic groups, but, until now, there has been an absence of scientific data."

Dr. Mayeske said he had analyzed "school achievement" test data from the records of 123,386 grade school students of various racial-ethnic groups originally gathered in a 1965 "Educational Opportunities Survey" requested by Congress.

And he declared that when "environmental and social factors" were statistically canceled out from such test scores, the minority-groups and white student achievement scores were almost identical. Saying the national average for school achievement test scores is 50, Dr. Mayeske said he found that Puerto Rican students' "adjusted" scores were 47.1; American Indians, 47.6; Oriental students, 51.1; Mexican-Americans, 47.5; Negroes, 49.3; and whites, 50.5.

Dr. Mercer said that, in her study, it was found that when I.Q. scores of the average Mexican-American and Negro student were adjusted upward — to take into account what she termed their lack of socio-cultural backgrounds like those of middle-class whites — the average IQ score for both groups was essentially the same as the national average of 100.

Most child abuse cases 'unreported'

VIENNA (UPI) — At least nine of every 100,000 children are victims of violence in the United States, a German doctor told the International Congress of Pediatrics Friday.

But, said Dr. Gustav Adolf Von Harnack, this figure represents only about five per cent of all cases of violence. He said most cases are not reported.

Harnack, from the Dueseldorf University in West Germany, said an official U.S. count revealed that in 1968 there were 6,617 cases of "physical child abuse" among 70 million youths.

Although such conflicts can only be solved individually, there must be no doubt that "the child's life and its preservation are of highest importance."

Harnack said about 75 per cent of all violence cases are committed by parents, 13 per cent by stepfathers, 5 per cent by stepmothers and the rest by other persons.

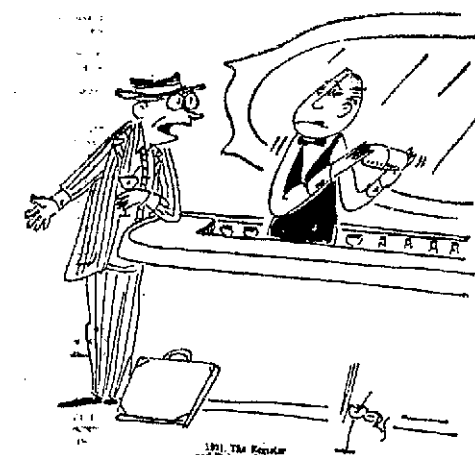

"Some parents maintain they have a right to punish their children," he said. "But it is often very difficult to draw the right limit between adequate punishment and violence."

Nearly 34 per cent of all cases concerned children aged one to three, about 20 per cent those between three and six, the rest youths between six and 18, he said.

"If wilful physical abuse of a child has been recognized by a physician, he has an obligation to report the incident," the doctor said. "It would be wrong in such cases to refer to the physician's professional secrecy."

"If wilful physical abuse of a child has been recog-

NIXON SETS TRADE GOALS

(Turn to Back Page, Col. 4)

ing shape of the world during the last quarter century, pointing out that while the United States is still No. 1 economically, it faces tough competition from Japan, the nations of Europe which it helped to rebuild, the Soviet Union and potential competition from 800 million Chinese.

He said some persons recommended building "a permanent wall around ourselves . . . and letting the rest of the world pass us by."

BUT THE path the nation should follow, he said, is to "set up fair rules of competition and then proceed to do our best."

Nixon said the inflation the nation is now experiencing is a legacy of the war and that on Aug. 15, when he announced his new economic policies, "I decided it was time for us to crack down."

He said his new economic policies were aimed at eliminating the inflationary squeeze that has hampered responsible business growth both at home and eroded America's competitive position abroad.

"More than that, these policies promise — for the first time in many years — to achieve a new prosperity — for farmers and for all Americans — without inflation and without war," Nixon said in remarks prepared for delivery before the giant dairy cooperative at the two-day convention.

But to make the policies work a new American spirit "which thrives on competition, which rises to meet adversity, which endures great burdens because it can envision greater rewards" would be needed, he said.

"IT IS THE spirit which knows that nothing worthwhile can be won except through sacrifice and through, self reliance, through discipline and through pride."

The President praised the nation's farmers for their remarkable productivity which has doubled the national average during the past 20 years.

Agricultural exports, he said, have reached a record high level which has helped enormously with America's overall balance of trade.

"Productivity holds the key to America's economic well-being," he said. "Only by increasing productivity can we achieve a higher standard of living without rampant inflation at home. And only by increasing productivity can we win a stronger position over the long run in the marketplaces and trading lanes of the world."

NIXON expressed sympathy for the plight of the farmer and praised their ability to produce under adverse circumstances. He said the prices farmers pay for all items have gone up 52 per cent in the past 20 years while the prices they receive have gone up only eight per cent during the same period.

"It is time they got some relief," he said. "Our new economic policies offer that relief."

Earlier, Nixon spoke at the dedication of a new Air Force museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio. Here, too, he emphasized the pioneering, competitive spirit of Americans.

"This is the spirit which drove the Wright brothers in those early years of this century and which has characterized all those who have followed in their steps," he told a crowd at the new $5.7-million museum, containing exhibits of America's aerospace technology.

"It is the spirit which we now must demonstrate anew — in every area of life — if we are to meet our current challenges and fulfill the American promise in our own time."

NIXON SAID the museum, located in the hometown of the pioneering Wright brothers, was "an outstanding symbol of that technological excellence which has done so much to enhance the quality of American life and which is so important to our position as a world leader."

From Dayton, Nixon flew to Chicago for a personal greeting from Gov. Richard V. Ogilvie and Mayor Richard Daley and an appearance before one of the nation's most powerful farm blocs, the milk producers group.

It was his second appearance in Illinois in little more than two weeks and reflected the importance this key Midwestern state plays in his re-election plans. En route to San Clemente on Aug. 26 he stopped in Springfield, Ill., to dedicate the home of Abraham Lincoln as a national shrine and ride in an open car through more than 100,000 well-wishers at the Illinois State Fair.

In all his appearances the President has repeated his claims that the conflict in Vietnam is ending and the new belt-tightening policies he put into effect last month were measures of peaceful, international competition.

HE SCHEDULED a nationwide radio address on Labor Day to emphasize the same theme with special emphasis on the role the working man must play in holding down the wage-price spiral.

The two weeks the President spent at the Western White House were the closest thing he has had to a vacation since assuming office. Aides said he spent most of his time reading material in preparation for his forthcoming trip to Peking and in examining various options for new economic restraints he will seek when the current wage-price freeze ends in mid-November.

2-psychosis theory for Watson

Charles "Tex" Watson and Charles Manson shared a "psychosis for two," a psychiatrist testified Friday as the defense sought to save the last of the accused in the Tate-LaBianca murders from the gas chamber.

Dr. Ira Frank, an assistant professor at the UCLA neuro-psychiatric institute, told the jury that it was his opinion that the 25-year-old Watson was suffering from a "severe mental disorder" at the time of the slayings.

WATSON confessed on the witness stand participation in all seven killings but said he did it on Manson's orders.

Frank said that the French phrase, "folie a deux," best described the relationship between the young Texan and Manson.

"It is a psychosis shared by two people," he said. "One very strong and dominant and psychotic, the other very dependent who would care to share the psychosis of the dominant person."

Frank also said that from what he had read and observed of the whole Manson cult that the relationship could be described by another French phrase, "folie a famille."

"That is a psychosis shared by everyone in the family," he said. "A leader and submissive members of his family who share his psychosis."

THE PSYCHIATRIST said his investigation showed that Watson had from childhood been a very dependent person with a "domineering mother who chose his girlfriends, his college, his studies and what sports he would enter."

Once Watson left home, came to California and was exposed to Manson, Frank said, the ex-convict filled in the void in the defendant's need for domination.

"Mr. Manson, in effect, controlled all that he did, all that he thought, what drugs he should take," Frank said.

The psychiatrist said he believed Watson had suffered severe brain damage as a result of taking LSD, belladonna and other hallucinogenic drugs while living with the "family."

HE SAID he was astonished to learn that Watson had been through three years of college when he first interviewed him because to him the young man appeared mentally retarded.

Frank was the first of more than a half dozen defense psychiatrists scheduled to testify. The prosecution had psychiatrists of its own presumably prepared to testify that Watson was sane in the legal sense that he understood the nature and consequences of his acts.

rived in the United States from Cuba in June of last year.

He said the passengers who helped to subdue the weapon-wielding hijacker were Dr. A. Paul Knott Jr., of Freeport, Bahamas, and Adolphus Rivers, a lawyer from Chicago.

Edwards, nursing his wrist wound, said "he was small but his grip on the pick I couldn't believe. I finally managed to force it away from him."

The entire episode occurred shortly before noon, 20 minutes before the big jet landed in Miami.

Kaiser to drop

Peru mine shares

OAKLAND (U) — Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. said it will relinquish its holdings in Minera Byovar, an 80 per cent owned Peruvian subsidiary with phosphate and potash mining claims.

The company announced Friday that the termination would mean a nonrecurring loss after taxes of about $7.5 million.

Moon age tests begin

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (UPI) — Scientists expect by the end of next week to have learned from the "genesis rock" brought back by Apollo 15 astronauts the true age of the moon.

The State University of New York at Stony Brook announced Friday it received for analysis a sample of the rock which the astronauts hoped would prove to be original moon matter.

A team of scientists will begin testing Tuesday and expect the results to be known by week's end.

The Stony Brook rare gas analysis team is one of two groups selected to test the age of the rock, about which astronaut David Scott exclaimed, "we've got what we came for."

The Stony Brook team is headed by Dr. Oliver Schaeffer and includes

Drs. Liaquat Husain and John Sutter.

The other group is headed by Dr. Grenville Turner in Sheffield, England.

The university's sample is a white cube with black-green tint weighing about one-half gram.

Although meteorite samples have suggested that the moon is 4.6 billion years old, most rocks brought back by astronauts have been in the age range of 3.8 billion years.

Caller asks $600,000 for airport bomb data

HOUSTON (UPI) — An anonymous male caller Friday demanded $600,000 in small unmarked bills in exchange for information telling where 10 explosive devices were hidden at the Intercontinental Airport.

Airport officials said a search of two terminals failed to produce any explosives and no ransom was paid.

One "drop" at a site specified by the caller did not attract anyone. It was believed no cash was involved.

"We were instructed to take no defensive measures," said Joe Foster, city aviation director. "We gave instructions to immediately evacuate both terminals."

STATE AEROSPACE JOBS

Sigurd Hansen, state director of the Department of Human Resources Development, said that although the number of persons out of work decreased, the rate remained the same because of seasonal adjustments and changes in the total labor force.

Hansen said the jobless rate remaining the same "indicates, I hope, more than just a leveling off, since this is the fourth month that we've checked or dropped the rate since the April high of 7.4 per cent."

In August 1970 the unemployment rate was 6.4 per cent.

Los Angeles County's unemployment total of 249,000 people have asked from the month before, but was 25,600 above August of last year.

Major trade disputes — including construction and dock workers — caused the unemployment rate in the San Francisco-Oakland area to rise from 6 per cent in July to 6.4 per cent in August. A year ago it was 5.1 per cent.

The effect of the dock strike, which began June 30, caused layoffs of other transportation workers and shut down a sugar refinery.

Seasonal food processing required more workers, offsetting a drop in manufacturing jobs caused by the model change at automobile plants.

Other areas showing increases in the unemployment rate from July to August were Bakersfield, 6.5 per cent to 7.1 per cent; Stockton, 8.3 to 10.2; Oxnard-Ventura 7.2 to 7.4, and San Jose 6.2 to 6.3.

DOCK STRIKE ACCORD

Bridges said in a Los Angeles speech Monday that a new contract will give the longshoremen higher wages and improved working conditions.

He said presidential approval was expected because "we consider ourselves an exception."

"We've just come out of two five-year contracts and during all this time inflation has been going on," he said, noting that West Coast longshoremen are on strike for the first time in 23 years.

James Robertson, PMA vice president, said the PMA would support a wage freeze exemption for a new dock contract, if the President agreed.

Einar Mohn, Western Conference of Teamsters president, said in a Honolulu news conference that he believed the wage freeze had been holding up a strike settlement.

The container truce plan reported by the Honolulu Star-Bulletin calls for creating work zones in dock areas for the ILWU, the Teamsters, and other freight-moving unions.

The ILWU has insisted that cargo containers be handled on the docks or in adjacent areas by longshoremen.

The teamsters, who have claimed container loading jurisdiction, proposed last week that the issue be settled through mediation or binding arbitration.

Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons made the proposal after a meeting with the ILWU's Bridges at Western Conference of Teamsters headquarters.

The ILWU has not yet responded.

500,000 put on no-smut-mail list

New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Under the authority of a seven-month-old law, about 500,000 people have asked the United States postal service to protect them from receiving smut in the mail.

The law authorized the postal service to establish on Feb. 1 a standing list of citizens who do not want to receive what is described as sexually oriented advertisements.

The penalty for a dealer who mails such matter to anyone who has been on the list for 30 days is a $5,000 fine and five years in prison. Postal officials say that the new procedure places the burden on smut mailers to make sure that they are not violating the law by sending their material to some one on the list.

Dealers can buy the list for $5,000. So far, five mailers reportedly have bought the list, which has mushroomed from about 6,000 names shortly after it was established to 500,000 this week.

Called the reference list, it continues to grow, one postal official said, at the rate of several thousand names a week.

Local post offices have available special blue and white forms that are fed into a computer allow for the names of children in a family as well as adults to be listed.

In addition to the initial list, each purchaser receives monthly revised lists.

JOLLY THE CLOWN AND SISTER, LA SHELLE ALEXANDER, SHOW MODEL CIRCUS AT ANAHEIM BRANCH LIBRARY

Brings back 'big top' days

Jolly the Clown on tour again

By BOB GEIVET

Greasepaint skidded him back into the clown business, and Ronald Alexander of Long Beach is happy again.

He's Jolly the Clown, and now he works year-round instead of "in season" with the circuses, carnivals and rodeos he followed for 25 years. Jolly gets his jollies with the kids nowadays. He likes to put on shows at libraries and museums, community centers and schools.

It gives him a chance to show his prized collection of the "big top" circuses of yesteryear, complete with animals, wagons and performers. He also did a frontier town, with the circus parade coming down the street in precise formation.

The static displays Alexander made took him about seven years to create — but he had a lot of time after he retired in 1955.

With a touch of nostalgia, he recalls that date very well.

"It was just a year before the last of the 'big tops,'" he says, explaining that the circuses folded their tents and went indoors in arenas and convention centers the next year.

They lost much of the aura of glitter and glamor when they did, but they still put on a show, Alexander insists.

The more he thought about it, the more interested he became in preserving this bit of Americana. Long a model railroad enthusiast, Alexander decided to recall the halcyon days by recreating a circus train. Then he added the frontier town — the model is 5 by 17 feet. Next came the circus, which is 14 by 26 feet, complete with three rings under tents.

It's a replica of the famed Ringling Bros. Circus of 1900 — before it combined with Barnum and Bailey.

He got a lot of help from his sister, LaShelle, who takes charge of the replicas and backs him in his magic acts, a part of Jolly the Clown's routine.

Together they make clown dolls, and she does their costumes. They also collect original posters of the old-time circuses, and she often makes reproductions of them.

They share their home and usually travel together searching for memorabilia. She's under a bit of a handicap now, however. She fell at their home, and she's in a wheelchair.

It doesn't dampen their enthusiasm for "anything about a circus" — and the memories they have of days of the big top.

Contempt rule on prosecutor upheld

By VINT MADER
Staff Writer

Municipal Court Judge Frederick A. Kepka Friday reaffirmed a ruling of contempt of court against Long Beach Deputy City Prosecutor Richard A. Brizendine and fined him $50 with the alternative of four days in county jail.

The judge's finding came after a 3½-hour hearing, and sustained a contempt citation he issued Monday over comments Brizendine made at the close of a non-jury trial on a traffic citation.

However, the judge granted a 30-day stay in the sentence at request of attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, special counsel retained by the city to represent Brizendine.

The judge overruled arguments by which Ramsey sought to purge the contempt order, including a claim that Kepka had failed Monday to give Brizendine a necessary warning that he was in danger of being found in contempt.

Ramsey also said he knows of no prior contempt finding ever having been brought from an informal proceeding like the Monday trial, where a defendant acts "in propria persona," defending himself without an attorney.

Ramsey said after the hearing, that the finding will be carried to a higher court in an attempt to overrule Kepka.

This was confirmed by City Prosecutor James T. Starr, who said he will ask Ramsey to file a writ of habeas corpus in Brizendine's behalf next week.

"AND I might say," Starr added, "Mr. Brizendine has been in the office since January of 1970 and I've always found him to be a perfect gentleman."

"I've known him to be a gentleman with everybody who comes into the office," he added.

Prior to joining the prosecutor's office, Brizendine was for 13 years a member of the Long Beach Police Department, while studying law at night. He was a sergeant when he was admitted to the State Bar.

Fraud trial of doctor in recess

With a jury impaneled, the conspiracy and fraud trial of a Corona del Mar physician in Santa Ana Superior Court recessed Friday until next week when it will be interrupted by two legal holidays.

Court will close Monday for Labor Day and Thursday for California Admission Day.

The defendant, Dr. Ebbe Hartelius, 50, is accused of obtaining disability insurance payments for his former mistress and office helper, Reba Vaughn. He was indicted on charges that he got about $1,400 in such payments.

Dr. Hartelius was arrested in April 1969 on charges that he set fire to his office, causing heavy damage. He was acquitted in a trial earlier this year, and within a month was indicted on the insurance fraud counts.

Doctors, nurses don't take annual physical exams

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Doctors and nurses don't think much of annual physical examinations, says a doctor's doctor.

And he can prove it.

Dr. Herbert H. Shey, personnel physician at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, says that annual physicals used to be compulsory for the hospital's 656 physicians, dentists and registered nurses.

Formerly his office conducted about 50 physicals a month. "Some escaped for one reason or another," he notes.

But since physicals became voluntary, only five or so employees have requested them each month, he says in a report in a medical publication, Hospital Tribune.

IS IT FEAR? Or do doctors wince at the thought of the discomfort of a proctoscopic examination.

It's not the latter, for the proctoscope is not used in routine physicals, Dr. Shey says.

"And I don't think fear is involved."

"Professionals don't take the physical examination as seriously as some make it out," he explains. "The implication is that we aren't convinced it's important enough."

Then he disclosed:

"I'm a little lackadaisical, too, about my physical," adding:

"I'm not convinced of the worth of the annual physical."

Dr. Shey says the VA requires certain laboratory tests annually — a blood count, urine examination, chest X ray and for those over 40, an electrocardiogram (heart-action tracing).

He believes that today's professionals (doctors, dentists and nurses) seem to value laboratory tests considerably more than physicals.

He criticized the tests as a "short way of detecting state of health" and said the most important factor is a medical history — an interview with the patient regarding past state of health.

"Without updating the medical history, there is very little gain from laboratory tests," he says.

Lab tests are of psychological value, he continues.

"The public feels that if it gets lab tests, something is going on to prevent dying sooner. But scientifically the returns are poor."

As for routine physical examinations, Dr. Shey says that it is uncommon to detect a hitherto unsuspected disease or disorder.

"Oh, we pick up something once in a while," he admits.

What about visits to superclinics, those diagnostic complexes that involve three-to-five-day exams with tests and X-rays galore?

"I'm personally opposed to them," Dr. Shey says.

But they have their advantages for executives who routinely visit them, he observes.

"THE EXECUTIVE gets a three-day rest from his usual surroundings," Dr. Shey says.

Also, he says, there is danger in the new trend toward obtaining many laboratory findings in a mass screening effort to ferret out possible abnormalities. The approach is known as multiphasic testing.

"It can create a lot more anxiety and possibly neurotic reactions," Dr. Shey says.

"For example you see something on a chest X ray and decide to take another film. You tell the patient of your finding. Then you see real fear."

Getting back to the routine annual physical, Dr. Shey sums up:

"It is hypocrisy which makes us give lip service to this most venerable institution, while actually most of us fail to avail ourselves and our families of the 'golden opportunity.'"

Rear Adm. Daniel E. Bergin assumed command of the 33-ship, 13,000-man cruiser-destroyer Flotilla 3 Friday in a precision ceremony aboard the nuclear frigate USS Truxtun at Long Beach Naval Station.

Bergin took command from Capt. Ralph Graham, who will return to his old post of cruiser destroyer force representative in Long Beach.

Capt. Graham served as commander from March 27, when Rear Adm. Robert Salzer left on emergency orders to lead U.S. naval forces in Vietnam.

Bergin was unable to leave the Defense Intelligence Agency in Washington to take command any earlier.

He was commodore of Destroyer Squadron 3 in Long Beach from February 1965 to September 1966.

Before the command change, Rear Adm. Sheldon H. Kinney, cruiser-destroyer force commander, presented Bergin with Legion of Merit award for his work in the Defense Intelligence Agency for the last three years.

Also present was Vice Adm. Raymond Peet, commander of the First Fleet.

The ceremony took just 22½ minutes, including all the speeches, a seven-gun salute to Capt. Graham and a 15-gun salute to Adm. Peet.

County in crash-hiring drive to give 700 jobs

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

About 700 formerly jobless persons will be given a fresh lease on life Tuesday when they begin new jobs in the county government.

They will be among the first in the nation to feel the benefits of the new federal Emergency Employment Act designed to break the back of mounting unemployment.

The new employees were signed up during a crash recruitment and selection program which saw more than 150 persons a day being processed by personnel department employees during the past week.

THEY'LL FILL a wide range of jobs paying average salaries of about $700 a month, according to a spokesman for the employment opportunities division of the county's personnel department.

For many it will be their first jobs in more than 12 months, spokesman said. And for many others it will mean an end to welfare checks and waiting in line for food stamps.

Spokesman said the new employees were recruited through the state Department of Human Resources Development.

Among them were many Vietnam veterans, former aerospace employees and disadvantaged persons who have priority status under the act.

The new employees will fill jobs as hospital attendants, medical technicians, community workers, typist clerks, key punch operators, engineering aides, graphic artists, air pollution inspectors, fire department aides, storekeepers, accountants, deputy sheriffs, radio telephone operators among others.

THEY ARE being hired as temporary monthly employes with civil service status, but it is hoped ultimately to absorb them all as permanent county employees before the act expires in 1973.

Officials said the 700 all will be on the payroll Tuesday, but many may have to go through orientation programs for the first week before starting actual work.

Generally speaking most of those hired had had some previous experience in the jobs they were allocated, officials said.

Though most of the administrative work is now being handled by regular county employees officials say they aim to hire some of the jobless in later months as administrative staff.

The new workers starting Tuesday were hired under an initial federal grant of $3.2 million which the county received Aug. 24.

All in all the county has been designated $17.2 million in the first year of the program and its application for the remaining $14 million must be made with the federal government before the end of September.

HOWEVER, the county also is acting as agent for 64 independent cities which will be submitting their proposals for use of the employment grant by Tuesday noon.

Following this, city and county officials will meet to work out a fair apportionment of the funds and the number of jobs each city will get, spokesman said.

Until this is completed it is not known how many more county jobs will be available, but some officials have put the figure at 1,200.

The Cities of Los Angeles and Long Beach and 11 others with populations exceeding 75,000 have been given direct grants and will handle their own programs.

vision of Apprenticeship Standards, said that for the first time the minority recruitment law contains a penalty provision, including both fines and imprisonment for violators.

He said officials of the state's 728 apprenticeship committees have expressed little opposition to the new plan. "They either are very much for it or resigned to the fact that it's something they've got to do."

Stratten said the new regulations specify that ethnic membership in apprenticeship programs must be in proportion to the ethnic makeup of the area from which its members are recruited.

U.S. backs state apprentice plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California obtained federal blessing Friday for its campaign to get more minority youths involved in apprenticeship programs leading to stable, well-paying jobs.

Gov. Reagan announced that the U.S. Department of Labor had approved the California State Plan for Equal Employment Opportunity for Apprenticeship.

James C. Stratten, in charge of the plan, said he hoped it could sell the apprenticeship ranks from the current 28,000 to about 44,000 of the present total, about 20 per cent are from minority backgrounds, but Stratten expects the share to grow.

Ralph Williams' marriage ends

A Santa Ana Superior Court judge Friday dissolved the 12-year marriage of erstwhile auto dealer Ralph Williams and his socialite wife Annabelle and ordered the nationally known television personality to pay her alimony and child support.

Judge H. Walter Steiner awarded Mrs. Williams $307,000, alimony of $3,000 a month and payments of $500 monthly for each of the couple's children, James, 11, and Catherine, 6.

Williams, who until his recent retirement billed himself as the "world's largest car dealer," also was ordered by the court to pay medical and dental bills for the children and support for their education.

Mrs. Williams, who retains the couple's Lido Isle home in Newport Beach, was awarded most of the personal property.

The Williams were married March 9, 1957, in Los Angeles and separated Sept. 4, 1969.

Mrs. Williams claimed at the time they separated that her husband was worth $7 million, and she demanded an equal share of the property. Conferences between their lawyers scaled down her demands.

Grid head injury kills youth, 10

A 10-year-old La Habra boy died Friday after being hospitalized six days for a head injury suffered in football practice.

Harold E. Anderson, of 430 Montwood St., was first injured Sunday while practicing for the Pop Warner Football League. Police said he complained of headaches that evening, but felt well the next day, and returned to practice Tuesday.

He collapsed unconscious on the football field that day, police said. The boy remained unconscious at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, until he died Friday at 1:50 p.m.

L.A.'s radio, TV stations face citizen watchdog unit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An organization has been formed to monitor the programming and hiring practices of Los Angeles radio and television stations, Sen. Mervyn Dymally said Friday.

"The project will use citizens and students to investigate shortcomings in the way the government regulates the broadcast media," Dymally said.

The Los Angeles Democrat said the group, the Council on Radio and TV, would concentrate on stations whose licenses are up for renewal.

Dymally said the first license to be challenged would be those of radio station KGFJ and television station KCOP, channel 13. He accused KGFJ of "poor programming" and complained that KCOP "has no minority employees in any significant positions."

"We are especially interested in radio and television stations which are beamed into black communities and exploit the listening public through their inadequate programming."

Cal Milner, group operations director for black-oriented KGFJ, said in Los Angeles he had expected opposition to the license renewal from some black groups because the station is white-owned. Milner said the announcement from Dymally, the Senate's only black, "can be taken two ways."

"He could either bid for the license himself if the renewal is denied, or he wants to be a watchdog to make sure the programming is what he would consider adequate."

Sylmar tunnel 'safe' 5 minutes before blast

SAN FERNANDO (UPI) — Safety measures were in effect in the Sylmar tunnel where 17 miners died in June up until five minutes before the fatal blast, the project manager said Friday.

Lauren G. Savage, project manager for the Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co., builders of the state water project tunnel, said he was standing at the head of the tunnel five minutes before the explosion.

He said he was only 5,000 feet away, on a railroad car, when the blast occurred.

Savage told a three-man Assembly committee studying the explosion that he determined from the force of the blast that oxygen breathing equipment was going to be needed and that he ordered the equipment and notified authorities immediately.

However, he said it was an hour and 15 minutes before he and four rescue workers returned to the tunnel heading, and that when they went inside they found one body and heard no signs of life from any of the other miners.

He said he worked overtime with crews at the heading and made certain the gas concentration remained below the level set by the State Division of Industrial Safety.

A flash fire had occurred in the tunnel less than 24 hours prior to the fatal blast, and Savage said he stayed in the tunnel to make sure his crews "didn't get careless and took the time to go slow to keep things under control."

He said the crew that was killed "was following through with my instructions and everything looked like it was well."

Serving over 50,000 satisfied clients for over 12 years.

ICELAND POPPIES . . . Quick Blooming Annuals

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Calendulas and Iceland poppies are the quickest to bloom of the winter-spring blooming annuals. They furnish color and cut flowers to harvest when the summer annuals have been replaced by the slower growing winter-spring annuals.

The bright yellow and orange blossoms of the calendulas add spots of color in the garden during the cloudy or overcast days. The plants provide lots of flowers if planted in sunny garden in prepared soil and fed twice during their development stage.

The crape paper texture blossoms of pink, white, yellow and orange Iceland poppies add colors to a sunny garden. Be sure to plant some champagne bubbles poppies. The blossoms probably aren't as large as Oriental poppies, but they'll sure make you think of the Oriental kind.

Both types of these free-blooming plants thrive as well in a narrow, sunny area as they do in a large sunny flower bed with other annuals.

WINTER sweet peas don't rot off because they are planted too deep. Rot is due to plants being set out too soon during extremely hot weather and being kept too moist — hence they wilt. Late September planting would be cooler and better.

Soil should be improved by adding some form of organic material such as well-weathered manure, compost soil, fine ground bark, leaf mold, or spread mulch material. The ground should be thoroughly watered a day or two before preparation.

A deep soil moisture encourages the roots to grow deeper and saves water.

Garden Clinic

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Many of my friends would like to know the name of the enclosed bulb flower, also the leaf from a seed that was given me from Oregon. Is it a myrtle wood? Mrs. J. Costello.

When enclosed flower is "spider flower" Hymenocallis calathina.

is there a general fertilizer or food that would do for the following plants:

Avocado, lemon, eastern lilac, bottle brush, hydrangea, bougainvillea, and Jacaranda tree.

The tree is as tall as a alley line, has only three Southern California Edison or four clusters of bloom. Why is it not in full bloom? It gets plenty of water, but maybe needs food? Are they a shallow-rooted tree. I ask because 2 huge old trees were removed this spring. They were beautiful when in bloom. Just can't think of why they were removed. Mrs. J. A. Morton.

A general all round fertilizer having a formula set of figures 6-10-4 plus trace minerals could be used on the named plants. Trees need deep soakings at least four feet deep to bloom best. The Jacaranda tree whose leaves are removed from around the base, for one of several (possibly hygienic) reasons, benefits from the periodic feedings. This results in more flowers and general good health. Maybe the trees grew too large for the size of the lot, or may not have had sufficient deep waterings, and either the roots near the surface cracked the sidewalk, or pavement, or were invading the lawn. (If you do find out why trees were removed please let us know.)

Club Notes

Socializing, bishops' good works, Pentecostal problem

By LES RODNEY

What happened to the summer? Can tomorrow really be September 4th?

There's a certain cheerful hubbub around the churches early in September as returning vacationers compare notes with each other and with those who have been around through the "dog days" of summer.

While socializing is hardly the prime function of the churches, don't knock it. Daily life is more fast-paced, impersonal and fragmented than it used to be. The feeling of genial fraternity and evidences of concern for each individual that one may find in good church life fill an important need.

There's not a thing contrary to Scriptures in being just plain nice to others for the sake of being nice rather than for the sake of using them in some way. Ask your nearest minister. If you don't know any ministers, September might be a pretty good month to find one. They're usually nice people.

THE CAMPAIGN for Human Development, an anti-poverty effort by the U.S. Catholic Bishops, has announced 59 grants for a total of $1,357,129, its third such disbursement since the campaign started two years ago. The way one reads about billions being thrown around these days, that may not sound like much. But, for instance, the $180,000 "seed money" to bring drinking water to 3,600 families in the parched land of Cameroon and Hidalgo Counties in Texas is indeed "much" to the actual persons living there.

Most of the grants are smaller, and always aim to be specific and local, and encouraging of self-help. A country day school for poor youth in Erie, Pa., help to an Indian center in Sioux Falls, S.D., a program for ex-offenders in Baltimore, construction of a laundrymat for the poor (white and black) of Russell County, Ala.; even a small grant of $2,184 to start a health care unit to meet immediate needs in Caguas, Puerto Rico.

The campaign will hold its next official collection Nov. 21 in Catholic churches throughout the land. The bishops simultaneously sponsor an ongoing program of education to call the attention of Americans to the true dimensions of poverty in this country. This is an important task, both to dispel smug ignorance on the subject, and to overcome what might be called the "compassion fatigue" of many good people who have started to tune out appeals for help.

The bishops would probably be the first to concede that this relatively modest effort does not basically attack the tragedy of poverty in the midst of affluence. But who can fail to applaud a determined, practical program of help to specific Americans who sorely need all the help they can get?

THE LUTHERAN Council in the USA, which serves the "Big Three" of American Lutheranism, has appointed three staff members as observer-consultants to the 20th annual meeting of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU).

None of the Lutheran denominations are included in the deliberations, which seek to unite nine Protestant groups into a 25-million member "Church of Christ Uniting" that will be "truly catholic, truly evangelical and truly reformed."

The nine, to refresh the memory, are the United Methodists, Episcopalians, United Presbyterians, Southern Presbyterians, United Church of Christ, Disciples of Christ, and three historically Negro groupings, African Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, and Christian Methodist Episcopal Church.

COCU will meet in Denver Dec. 27-30 under the general theme: "What does God require of the Consultation on Church Union now?" Under this theme are four major questions, including this perhaps significantly new one: How can there be a united church sensitive to the pluralities of our present historical moment?

WHEN THE numerically small Catholic National Assn. of Laymen called press conferences a year ago urging that dioceses publish financial reports (they did not suggest any kind of wrongdoing, just the parishioners' right to know), the general reaction was:

1. This is a way-out request by a non-influential group.

2. Dioceses are not going to change their procedures on such matters, certainly not for a long, long time after such unprecedented prodding.

A survey issued in New York this month shows that of 159 dioceses in this country, 63 now publish financial reports, 37 are actively planning to do so, two are considering the matter, 23 do not have such plans, and 34 did not reply.

REPORTS OF continued expansion, rare these days in the church world, were received at the biennial general council of the Assemblies of God held in Kansas City.

Largest by far of the Pentecostal bodies in the U.S., the 57-year-old denomination reports a growth of 28 per cent in the last decade, to 645,891 American members. (There are seven churches in the Long Beach - Lakewood area, several quite small.

The Pentecostals have undoubtedly gained through the searching for more spontaneous, inner-spirit life, which is part of our times. They base themselves on the "baptism of the Spirit," an experience which sometimes goes along with "speaking in unknown tongues." This goes back to the believers at Pentecost after Christ's ascension, as related in Acts.

The interesting paradox which growth sometimes brings is noted in the denomination's monthly, Advance, which says that movements go through an initial burst of energy to formal organization, maximum efficiency, then institutionalism and decay, adding:

"The Assemblies of God is somewhere near the optimum in the delicate balance between spiritual vitality and efficient organization." But the ensuing stages of institutionalism and stagnation can be reversed by internal reform and renewal, the magazine adds, in outlining a plan of advance.

Once regarded somewhat tolerantly as a stepchild, the Pentecostals, with many successes around the world, are getting more respectful attention from their fellow Christians. While the Assemblies here remain aloof from ecumenical organizations, the largest Brazilian grouping has entered the World Council of Churches. And a recent series of talks in this country between Episcopal and Assemblies scholars brought some unexpected agreements even though you are hardly likely to hear speaking in tongues at St. Luke's, nor are the folks at First Assembly apt to start referring to "Father Steelberg.")

AN ARTICLE in Christianity and Crisis by Raymond L. Whitehead, an Asian-based China scholar associated with the National Council of Churches, following a one-month tour with 13 others on the mainland, offers no euphoric hope for an immediate opening up of that country to the gospel.

But, it concludes, "Regardless of our religious standpoint, our main concern should be with man and society in China. If we are able to move beyond some of our own hostilities and prejudices, we can look forward to an interesting period in our relations with the Chinese people."

An interesting book on China possibilities is "China: the Puzzle" by well-informed evangelist Stan Mooneyham. It is available in paperback from World Vision International in Pasadena, which he now heads. Dr. Mooneyham is also in charge of international relations for the Billy Graham Assn., coordinated the 1966 World Congress on Evangelism in Berlin, and the 1968 Asian-Pacific Conference in Singapore.

Freedom award to Compton priest

Rev. Richard O'Shaughnessy, "worker-priest" at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Compton, was one of six California secondary school teachers to receive the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation Teachers Medal.

Father O'Shaughnessy is a history teacher in the Compton Unified School District, and is also a National Guard chaplain.

RABBI HENRI FRONT

Rabbi Front to Beth David of Orange County

Temple Beth David of Orange County has obtained Dr. Henri Front as its rabbi.

Well known in the Southland, Rabbi Front, after serving two years as a Navy chaplain, was spiritual leader at Temple Menorah of the South Bay, then was regional director in Pennsylvania for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and for two years was an associate rabbi at Wilshire Boulevard Temple, the West's largest Reform synagogue. He taught Jewish Philosophy at the University of San Diego, and last year taught Jewish Ethics at UC-Irvine.

Born in Wheeling, W. Va., he was educated at the University of Cincinnati and Hebrew Union College, where he was president of the graduating class of 1955. He has been national co-chaplain of the Jewish War Veterans, president of the South Bay Ministerial Assn., and founded the Inter-racial Council for Housing and Education in Philadelphia. He is a member of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Governor's Committee on Aging, and Mayor's Adult Committee on Youth.

Temple Beth David is currently holding its services at the Community Congregational Church, 4111 Katella Ave., Los Alamitos.

Happy 25th upcoming at Bethany

No sacred-secular division at Baptist church school

'All truth is God's truth,' says principal

Twenty-fifth anniversary is coming up for Long Beach's Bethany Baptist School, an adjunct of the large modern church on Clark Avenue just off Los Coyotes Diagonal, perhaps the busiest church intersection in the nation. And a happy 25th it is. "We expect 340 pupils in our classrooms on September 13th," says the principal, Rev. Fred Miyauchi. That will mark a new high for the school, which educates children from kindergarten through ninth grade. Students come from a wide radius centered on Long Beach, Lakewood and nearby Orange County communities, with some traveling from as far as Buena Park. What advantages would parents see in having their children receive their primary education here, rather than the public school system? "I can't speak for all the parents," responded the 38-year-old Christian educator, who is starting his eighth year at the school helm. "But I can tell you our philosophy. We hold that all truth is God's truth. If that is so, it is inconceivable to divide things into secular and sacred. All is God's truth, including math and science."

Another factor which enters, he believes, is parent fear of some bad influences, such as narcotics, particularly in the junior high age range. They feel these dangers will be avoided in a religion-oriented and controlled school. Founded as a missionary project of the church, the school does not in any way stress Baptist denominational distinctives, the principal, says. Statistics last year show that 49.5 percent of the students came from families which attend Bethany Baptist Church. Among the others are a wide variety of religious backgrounds. The school also reflects the multi-racial character of the Southland's population. Like all schools, Bethany has felt the financial crunch of inflated costs. Federal aid is limited to a milk subsidy, and the loan of library books. "We have raised tuition, reluctantly," Miyauchi said. "We do not want this to become a rich man's school."

About one-third of Bethany's graduates go on to Brethren High School in Paramount, which shares Bethany's conservative, Bible-centered emphasis. Other graduates go to the area public high schools, where, reportedly, they do well. When school starts a week from next Monday, there will be 15 full-time people hard at work, including Miyauchi, a secretary and 13 teachers — backed up by part time assistants. Some time next spring, a gala celebration of the Silver Anniversary will be held. After 25 years of service, the pupils who have come out of Bethany School, plus their families, might overflow any arena in town.

CALLS JESUS PEOPLE 'Faddists, not 1st century Christians'

By LES RODNEY

A veteran Long Beach pastor, while giving credit to some of them for a sincere desire to do the right thing, has blasted the notion that the so-called Jesus People are typical of 1st Century Christianity. Rev. Dr. George O. Peek, pastor for 23 years of the large North Long Beach Brethren Church, told his congregation that the controversial and much publicized young people are faddists who fail to qualify as New Testament Christians on every basic count.

In a chat Friday with the Independent, Press-Telegram, the pastor, whose own church contains a vigorous youth movement, wanted first to clearly define who he was speaking about. "After all," he said, "every New Testament believer is a Jesus person, strictly speaking. Today, the term is sometimes loosely used to include not only the street people, but all youngsters interested in the teachings of Jesus, such as Young Life, Youth for Christ, Campus Crusade, Baptist young people groups, etc. "I am not talking here about them, but about the young people generally meant today by the term Jesus People, the street people, the way outs, the ones who call themselves 'franks.' These youngsters, who have received mixed evaluations, which often criticize some aspects of their behavior but see in them a revival of true early Christianity, are a far cry from the early Christians they say they are, Dr. Peek holds.

They fail completely on six quick counts, in his opinion. 1. Music. "This hard rock which is so central to them... The New Testament makes clear that 1st Century music was joyful singing. Read Paul, in Galatians, he spoke of songs and hymns, making melody in your heart. There is a complete contrast right here, in music." 2. Communal living. "Fifteen and 20 couples shackling up together is not New Testament Christianity. The family is clearly stated as the basic unit of God's social order." 3. Sloppy dress. "This is supposed to be similar to Jesus, the beards, sandals, rags and all. The point to remember is that Jesus was dressed properly in the mode of His day. These youngsters are not." 4. Language. "Oh, I know all the talk about a subculture and its language. This language is trash, completely contrary to 1st Century Christianity. Jesus spoke simply. If anything characterized His language, it was dignity. There was no sloppy slang. 5. Opposition to all authority. "This is not biblical. I know the argument about obeying God rather than man, but that pertains to things that relate to God. Render unto Caesar... The mark of the really true Christian was citizenship." 6. Copout from society. "They don't believe in work. They're against the establishment, but you see them thumbing rides on establishment freeways, from establishment cars. Their being able to cop out depends on the establishment. The Bible says man shall live by the sweat of his brow. Work, not cop out." Dr. Peek said he understands full well that many youngsters are dissatisfied with the state of things, and hungry for meaning. "But this is faddism. This mimicry of each other is a revelation of immaturity. The little kid must have what the other kids have. These so-called Jesus People of the streets are playing games, they have no goals, no ambition. It is a sad situation." Finally, and in the pastor's opinion even more basic than the above points, the youngsters, he says, are acting on subjective feelings, not on the great propositional truths which undergird Christian belief. "They speak of good vibrations, being high on Jesus, and things like that. This subjectivity is not the basis for Christianity. Christianity is based on truth, within a historical framework, on the statements of Scriptures. Not on tradition or subjective experience. "What is missing in these young people is a recognition of the holiness of God, which I believe is the greatest doctrine in Scriptures. Their concept is of a good old buddy, a nice guy. They don't talk about the sinfulness of man, the great cardinal truths of Christianity. There's no repentance in this group. This is the shallowness that the Bible warns about." Dr. Peek reiterated that he does not mean to deny the sincerity of some of the young Jesus People. "The desire of some of them to be right with God." But he will have none of the "1st Century Christianity" widely attributed to the phenomenon.

Confident living Dropouts, teachers

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Joe is 18. And he has been trying to get work for over a year. The future seems to hold little in store for him. He's got a dream too; it's to buy a fast car. Beyond that he has no goals. Will Joe find a job? Will Joe get anywhere in life? Perhaps, if he's lucky, but his chances are not very good, for he already has a strike against him. You see, he is a high-school dropout.

It is reported that a million kids in the United States each year turn their backs on one of the greatest advantages offered to them — 12 years of free schooling. They don't realize that only through education can people experience self-development and attain identity. An education can help Joe acquire the foundations in information and skills that he needs to get along in this complex world of today.

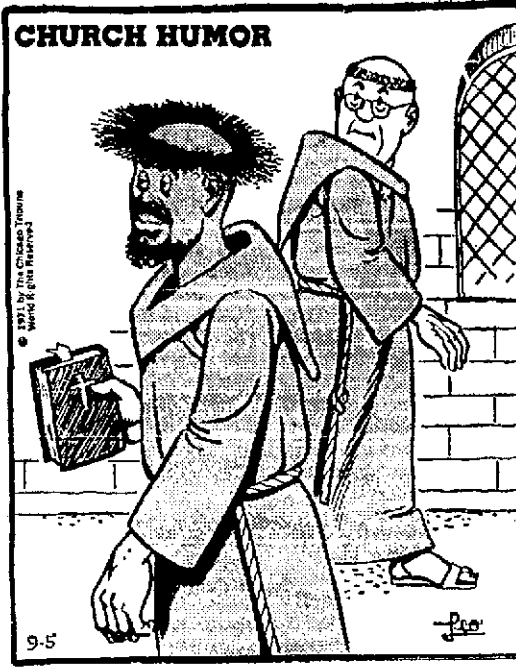

Will Joe become a delinquent? Well, it's possible. Certainly he isn't going to develop appreciations or acquire enthusiasm for constructive work hanging around the streets, the taverns or the pool halls. According to U.S. Department of Labor figures, dropouts are not only more often unemployed, but are also out of work for longer periods of time.

AND YOU really can't blame a personnel manager if he thinks to himself, "If this kid didn't finish school, how can I depend on him? Why should I take on his troubles when there are plenty of better risks? Besides, who wants to gamble on a guy who doesn't want to go anywhere?"

What made Joe a school dropout? The immediate cause was an argument with a teacher over an unfinished assignment, but the problem had been building up over a long period of time. Joe consistently failed in his studies for a number of years. And he never took part in extra-curricular activities. He thought most of the kids were square and that the teachers were unfair. He saw himself an outsider and, because he felt nobody cared, he didn't care either. Joe grew up saying, "It's no use!" instead of "I will try!" And that makes all the difference.

A student, to be successful, must be directed. And his behavior, of course, can be inspired by his teachers. From them he should learn some human dignity. A sincere student grows mentally and even spiritually, and hopefully learns to know himself. But this can only come if teachers are continuously growing too and if they help young people develop self-confidence and self-respect. Sadly enough, this isn't always the case. At a boys' school a new headmaster was chosen. After the appointment was announced, a teacher ap-

Blake visits Chile, tells WCC interest

GENEVA (AP) — The general secretary of the World Council of Churches views the Socialist experiment in Chile as a "sign of encouragement and stimulus to any other countries who share similar difficulties and similar hopes," the council said this week.

A WCC statement said Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, an American, expressed his views in a meeting with president Salvador Allende during a visit to Chile last week.

The World Council statement quoted Allende as telling Dr. Blake that he does not fear foreign military intervention at this time because "this is not the time for such adventures, nor is Chile a country which lends itself to such things."

"There is a danger which comes from economic pressures and propaganda campaigns, and here is where the moral support and understanding of Christians and all those who seek a more human existence for man will be of great importance to us."

more smiles these days." Perhaps if Joe had had a teacher who encouraged optimism, things might be a little different. Of course, the dropout problem isn't only in the hands of the teacher. Preventing dropouts really begins at home. But if together teachers and parents encourage their children with warmth and interest to "go ahead and try," kids will be likely to develop into people who meet life with courage and confidence and they will stay in school.

MEAD RAPS 'GOD IS SHE'

"What in thunder is gained by reversing 'God is a He' to 'God is a She' except irritating people?" said Dr. Margaret Mead, an Episcopalian and anthropologist, at a meeting in New York on improving women's role in the church. "It gets us nowhere."

Methodists adopt evangelism push

A global, four-year emphasis on evangelism to culminate in 1975 was adopted by the World Methodist Council and referred to the council's 55 member churches for ratification and implementation. The program of "intensified mission to the world" is to: "Emphasize the reality of and necessity for the inward personal experience of God in Christ through the Holy Spirit and the necessity to fashion a just social order in which all people, especially those who hitherto have been deprived, may live a truly human existence."

FROM THE PULPIT

The Israelites spent 40 years in a journey that should have been completed in a few months at the most. And most of them died in the wilderness, never seeing their "Promised Land." Their journey was never finished, and their work never done. Why? Because "every man did that which was right in his own sight."

God's plan of salvation is being ignored while people like the Jews in the 10th Chapter of Romans, execute their own plan in salvation. It has become a matter of "this is what I believe" instead of "this is what God says."

Examine your personal salvation by God's plan of salvation. Do they harmonize? If your case came up before God and was determined by what His Word says instead of your own beliefs, would you be sure of Heaven?

Denominational pride, family pride and personal pride have their places. But the Word of God standeth sure. The Lord knoweth those who are His. Do you know Him as personal Saviour?

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Jerry Lewis telethon set

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Jerry Lewis, who began his Labor Day Telethons for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America six years ago, starts the annual affair at 10:30 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 11.

For 20 hours, the show will air live from New York, with stations across the nation cutting away for periods of 5 to 8 minutes hourly for local activity.

AMONG those who have offered to appear are Steve Allen, Sidney Blackmer, Julie Budd, James Coco, Dorothy Collins, Joan Crawford, John Davidson, Sammy Davis, Jr., Yvonne DeCarlo, The Devonnies, Fifi D'Orsay, Mike Douglas, The Emerald Society Bagpipers Band, The Fifth Dimension, Connie Francis, Joe Frazier, The Knockouts, Bobby Goldsboro, Rocky Graziano, David Harman, Hildegarde, Ron Holgate, Thelma Houston, Van Johnson, B.B. King, Werner Klemperer, Bob McAllister, Marilyn Michaels, Helen O'Connell, Johnnie Olsen, Jack Palance, Minnie Pearl, Tiny Tim, Gwen Verdon, Shirley Verrett, Shani Wallis and Your Father's Moustache.

Recalling some of the history of the Labor Day Telethons, Lewis said that when the idea was first suggested, "many communications experts told us Labor Day Weekend was hardly a good time to attract TV viewers. They were wrong. As a matter of fact, our first show had excellent ratings and broke all records for a program of its kind. When we went off the air, the tote board stood at an incredible $1,002,114!"

The second year, $1,126,846 was pledged; and each year, amounts pledged increased to the last year total of $5,093,385.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association said that 97.9 per cent of the total pledged on last year's show has been collected.

Funds raised through the telethon are used for the Muscular Dystrophy organization's worldwide research program as well as in the communities where the money is raised, a spokesman for the group said. "There are seven research grants underway in Los Angeles at this time, as well as four clinics to serve the dystrophic patients in the area. Additional clinics are located in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties."

NBC's Ch. 4 at 8:30 p.m., Sunday, and 7:30 p.m., Monday, will show two versions of a pilot for a TV series, based on the motion picture, "Cat Ballou."

In the first pilot, Jack Elam plays Kid Shellen and Lesley Warren plays "Cat"; in the second, Forrest Tucker plays the Kid and Jo Ann Harris is "Cat."
Both pilots, it is explained, are based "loosely" upon the motion picture.

STATE SENATOR Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles has announced formation of a "Council on Radio and TV" (CORT) which he said will challenge the license renewal of radio station KGFJ and television station KCOP (Ch. 13).

Sen. Dymally said the organization will use citizens and students "to investigate shortcomings in the way government regulates the broadcast media."

"We are especially interested in radio and television stations which are beamed into black communities and exploit the listening public through their inadequate programming."

He commented that "some stations like KGFJ seem to think that the hiring of black employees is a substitute for poor programming. On the other hand, KCOP has no minority employees in any significant positions."

Merv Griffin asks CBS for release from contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Merv Griffin has asked CBS to release him from his contract as host of the network's late-night talk show, a Griffin spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said a story in the trade newspaper Hollywood Reporter that Griffin wanted out of his contract was "substantially true."

Metromedia Producers Corp. said Friday that it has been negotiating with Griffin for a syndicated talk show. Griffin is said to be considering the offer.

CBS said, "Mr. Griffin is under contract to CBS. The decision with regard to picking up his next option doesn't come until mid-December."

The Hollywood Reporter said Griffin, whose contract runs until Feb. 15, wants out by Dec. 31.

Rumors have been circulating for months that CBS is looking for a successor to Griffin and such names as Bill Cosby, Sonny and Cher and Dan Rowan and Dick Martin of "Laugh-In" have been mentioned. Cosby recently signed a contract with CBS for a variety show for next season and Sonny and Cher were a hit summer replacement.

The reporter quoted a Griffin spokesman as saying, "He simply does not want to stay at CBS. He felt they did not have his show on enough stations — 60 less than Carson and that the ratings were not going to get better than they are now."

Griffin, whose show premiered in August 1969, has run a persistent second to NBC's Johnny Carson in the ratings. The Griffin show was moved from New York to Hollywood a year ago this month in an effort to boost the ratings.

Hirsute workers to don hairnets

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (UPI) — The Kellogg Co. has adopted a new policy of issuing hairnets to male employees who wear long hair. Previously only women wore hairnets.

An employee was sent home in May because his hair was too long. He said he was willing to wear a hairnet and a grievance was filed by his attorney. The American Federation of Grain Millers Local 3 supported the grievance which led to the new policy.

"Read The Meter"

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

Sometimes even the most case-hardened of judges can be influenced by the appearance or demeanor of a defendant.

This well-dressed, clean-cut young man was accused of marrying 3 women without benefit of having divorced the first 2. He had 2 children with each wife, he explained and while having no criminal record, found himself in his present predicament because of his weakness for women. The spectators watched a tear trickle down the judge's cheek, and as his face turned white, they felt that his heart was now pumping copious quantities of the milk of human kindness. Just then, to complete his defense, the accused added:

"Your honor, I earn good money and have been paying my 1st, 2nd and 3rd wife $100 a week each! Isn't that big o' me?"

With that, the judge sat bolt-upright and barked, "Bigamy is just what it is — and striking his gavel with gusto, he announced, "3 years — To 'altar' your attitude on the sanctity of matrimony!"

Somebody sound charge, Mike Garrett is back

FORMER USC star Mike Garrett was much in evidence Friday night as he returned to the Coliseum in San Diego uniform against the Rams. Left, short first quarter gain to Rams' 38 set up field goal as Marlin McKeever, Merlin Olsen, David Jones and Coy Bacon move in. Right, Garrett is brought down by McKeever after taking pass.

Ashe takes it easy

Chides other pros for bypassing play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur Ashe, Jr., slammed into the third round with a straight-set victory over a young Baltimore collegian Friday and chided his fellow contract pros for skipping the U.S. Open Tennis Championship.

The former Davis Cup ace from Richmond, Va., crushed 19-year-old Steve Krulvitz, a student at the University of Utah, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 and kept alive his hopes of winning the $20,000 top prize.

"I thought some of the guys were short-sighted for dropping out," Ashe said, referring to Rod Laver, defending champion Ken Rosewall, Tony Roche and four other top pros.

"I even tried to persuade Laver to change his mind. But he wanted to go home. While it's to my advantage for Laver and the others not to be around, I felt it was their duty to play."

"This is the second most important tournament in the world—second only to Wimbledon. This is where you build your reputation." Ashe, in a fresh look at the troubled tennis picture during a half-hour press conference, also said the game badly needed one-man rule — a commissioner.

"A man like Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League would be great," he added. "Better still, I'd like to see Jack Kramer in the job. He's made and lost money. He's lived with it. He knows all the angles."

Ashe, seeded No. 3, advanced along with two other men favorites — Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., No. 6, and Romanian Ilie Nastase, No. 8, plus four of the eight top-ranked ladies — Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, No. 2; Kerry Melville of Australia, No. 4; Judy Dalton of Australia, No. 6, and Julie Heldman of New York, No. 8.

The most exciting match — if not the best played — was that between Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the giant-killer, and Pierre Barthes, an erratic long-haired pro from Paris.

Kodes, serving frequent double faults early in the match and sloppy in his stroke production, rallied to pull out a 2-6, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 victory before the 9,000 stadium crowd at the West Side Tennis Club.

WELLS 'OUT OF CHANCES,' GETS PRISON SENTENCE

OAKLAND (AP) — Warren Wells, wide receiver of the Oakland Raiders, was sentenced to prison for 90 days Friday by a judge who told the football player "you have run out of chances."

Judge Leonard Dieden of Alameda County Superior Court ordered Wells to serve a 90-day sentence for "diagnostic study" at the state medical facility. Wells' probation on a 1969 conviction for attempted rape was revoked pending the psychiatric studies at Vacaville.

The hearing on Wells' probation was scheduled as the result of an off season stabbing incident in Beaumont, Tex.

The athlete asked the judge for "a break" in a personal plea before the decision was made. Dieden told him, "You have had every chance. You have just run out of chances."

Wells, who caught 43 passes for 335 yards last year to rank among the top receivers in the National Football League, played in the Raiders' first four exhibition games this year. Oakland opens the regular NFL season Sept. 1 in New England, and veteran Rod Sherman is Wells' likely replacement.

One of the witnesses Friday was a smartly dressed young woman who testified she pulled an open switch blade knife from her purse and stabbed Wells this spring because she was afraid of him.

Jeanette Landry, 20, of Beaumont, Tex., said she stabbed Wells in retaliation for a beating he administered to her two weeks before on April 28 in his automobile.

She said he beat her because she wouldn't "trick" for him.

Asked by Asst. Dist. Atty. Jack Meehan what "trick" meant, she said, "He meant cheating, that I had been selling my body and not giving him the money."

Wells, 28, was before the court on a parole revocation hearing.

He was put on three years' probation in 1969 following conviction for rape. His probation was revoked last winter after an arrest for investigation of drunken driving, was re-granted in April after 60 days of diagnostic tests, and was being reconsidered because of the stabbing incident.

Miss Landry, dressed in a white micro-mini dress with yellow beads that hung to her knees, told the court that after the beating Wells drove her to Club Tahiti, a night club in Beaumont frequented by blacks.

"Mr. Wells told me, next time he sees me I'd better have some money," she said.

"What did he mean?" asked Meehan.

"He meant I better get out and sell my body," she replied.

Dodgers stay alive with four in ninth

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The pulled muscle in his right thigh kept nagging but Manny Mota wasn't about to tell anyone.

He's a platoon outfielder which means he plays only occasionally. Friday night was one of those rare occasions and Manuel Geronimo Mota wasn't about to let it slip away.

The nagging pain of the injury got so bad in the fourth inning, though, he whispered something about it to Maury Wills. Word of the injury finally reached the manager but Walter Alston had just one thing on his mind when he heard it.

"Frankly, I didn't want to take him out of the game," the manager said.

later. "If it got bad enough he'd say something."

The pain of it all disappeared swiftly, though, when Mota came to bat in the ninth inning.

DODGER OF DAY

MANNY MOTA drove in three runs with ninth inning triple as Dodgers rallied to stun Cincinnati, 6-5.

the ninth inning, the Dodgers trailing Cincinnati by two runs but with the bases loaded.

He lined a sharp line drive toward centerfielder George Foster. But the ball took a funny twist, bounded past Foster and rolled to the wall for a triple as three runs scored and the Dodgers trimmed the startled Reds, 6-5, before 16,792 fans at Dodger Stadium.

"It hurt bad," Mota said of the bum muscle, "but, funny thing, I didn't feel a thing running out that triple."

The incredible come-from-nowhere victory was the Dodgers' fourth in their last five starts but it failed to improve on their standing in the National League West. San Francisco reduced its "magic number" to 17 by wallowing Houston to remain 8½ lengths in front of the Dodgers.

For Mota, who had two singles along with his decisive three-base blow, it lifted his average to .313 and, naturally, someone wanted to know if he'd prefer playing every day.

"It's hard platooning," he said. "Like the last trip. I played three days in a row and then not again for a week. But that's the way I've played for nine years. I'm 33 now and since I haven't played regularly in the past I'm sure it's not going to happen now."

Mota, then, will continue playing solely against left-handers and, as he says, "just try to do the job."

He did the job rather dramatically Friday evening, bringing the Dodgers a victory after they'd managed just three singles and a run through seven innings against young Cincinnati lefthander Don Gullett. They got another in the eighth but still trailed, 5-2, entering the ninth.

Clay Carroll, who bailed Gullett out of a scrape in the eighth, started the ninth by walking Jim Lefebvre and Bill Sudakis.

Joe Gibbon, another lefthander, replaced Carroll but surrendered a single to pinch hitter Bobby Valentine to load the bases.

Alamitos battle of Bars

100-grander a two-horse race

The top horses campaigning at Los Alamitos clash in the $100,000 Quarter Horse Championship this evening, with the duel between Charger Bar and Kaweah Bar highlighting the 440-yard classic.

The Championship highlights the holiday weekend schedule that includes the $40,000 Juvenile Championship to be run Labor Day Monday night, with the better two-year-olds clashing at 400 yards.

The battle between Charger Bar and Kaweah Bar could result in the former being acclaimed 1971 horse of the year if she wins the big race. Kaweah Bar, which has lost twice to the Tiny Charger filly and four times has tasted defeat this year, could regain some prestige by winning.

Any other horse winning the championship besides the two favorites seems unlikely, but you can never tell. In Vogue, which is entered in the classic race of the meeting, surprised a heavily favored Tru Tru a year ago to capture the $128,600 Golden State Futurity. The win payoff was $124.

Royal Doulton defeated Kaweah Bar in a 350-yard race two months ago at the track, so an upset could take place.

However, off her perfect six-for-six record that includes winning the $90,000 Los Alamitos Derby and the $50,000 Go Man Go, Charger Bar will be the horse to beat. However, Kaweah Bar seems to have improved since his two losses to Charger Bar last July, but the question seems to be whether he has improved enough to catch the little filly.

Kaweah Bar and Charger Bar last met in the Go Man Go July 31, and a Los Alamitos pari-mutuel handle record of $145,033 was set in that race.

Bobby Adair has been aboard the last two winners of the Championship — Go Derussa Go in 1969 and Kaweah Bar a year ago. James Dreyer rides Charger Bar.

The lineup for the Los Alamitos Championship includes, from the rail out, Charger Bar, Top Rockette, Jet Charger, Diamond Sun Joe, Miss Little Bid, Parfame, Royal Doulton, Whataway To Go, Kaweah Bar and In Vogue.

Prothro war cry unheeded

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

Tommy Prothro declared war on the San Diego Chargers Friday night, but his troops failed to heed the battle cry and lost, 20-14, before an appalled Coliseum crowd of 56,116.

The Rams had been expected to throw their first haymaker of the summer after five weeks of experimentation, but it never came. The Chargers had the Rams on the ropes early to foil Prothro's plans of becoming a cohesive team in one night.

Roman Gabriel, who sustained a rib injury with 11:11 remaining in the game, spent most of the night examining the Coliseum turf. Gabe was socked five times for 37 yards in losses.

Trailing 20-7, Karl Sweetan came off the bench to replace the injured Gabriel. After Sweetan had two drives stopped by interceptions, the reserve quarterback finally caught fire and directed a 92-yard scoring surge, capped by a 16-yard TD pass to Lance Rentzel with 1:04 remaining.

But Karl's hopes of pulling miracle were washed out when his attempted screen pass on the Charger 38 was blocked by Joe Owens as the gun sounded.

The loss leveled off the Rams' exhibition record at 3-3 while San Diego now has won three of five starts.

Prothro, as could be expected, was a most unhappy fella. "I'm not very happy about anything right now. We played lousy football. I'm very disappointed and very surprised. I didn't really think our offense was in the ball game."

"We made every mistake and turnover you can make in a game."

Asked if his all-out approach this week put extra pressure on the team, Prothro said, "It didn't seem like it to me. I'm quite concerned about the team. We'll have a different attitude and play some football."

Questioned on San Diego's constant pass rush, Tommy said, "I don't look at it that way. I think it was sad pass protection on our part. We didn't have that many starters out of the game."

McKay old man? Don't you believe it

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

Pondering the variables of the approaching Pacific-8 Conference football race, John McKay Friday told touring Skywriters:

"There are great players up and down the coast. It's how you compete under pressure that counts."

McKay read a San Francisco newspaper story, which said: "John McKay is chronologically middle-aged. But he could now pass for an old man."

Then the 47-year-old USC coach flattened himself out on the floor of the Heritage Hall theater-auditorium and accomplished two extended pushups.

He grinned. "Gentlemen, I'm not an old man, and my wife thinks I'm a pretty handsome son of a gun."

All of which pointed up what McKay had to say about his 1971 football team — a young, handsome club which must compete under the pressure of a sixth place conference finish in 1970.

"A team has to determine how important winning is," philosophized McKay. "If you lose, and it doesn't bother you, then you are a 6-4-1 team."

The reference was the 1970 Trojans, who tied national champion Nebraska early in the season and closed out the year with an upset victory over previously unbeaten Notre Dame.

"There were times last season when the team was the best we've had at USC," said McKay. "At other times..."

Asked if he expected a more consistent effort from the 1971 Trojans, who open their 11-game schedule against Alabama at the Coliseum on Friday, Sept. 10, McKay replied:

"Yes, we'll play with more intensity. We should move the ball better. That doesn't mean we'll score more points. Our point total last year was misleading. It was inflated by big scores against Alabama, Oregon State and Washington State."

"But we scored only one touchdown against Cal. My god, we ought to score one touchdown against the Green Bay Packers."

Areas of concern, he said, are receiving, line-back and the defensive line.

"We lost two great receivers in Bob Chandler and Sam Dickerson," he noted. "But the guys (Mike Morgan and Lynn Swann) we have there now are adequate. We have only one linebacker, John Papadakis, who has played that position in college ball."

"The defensive line has talent, but only John Grant has college experience and he's been moved from tackle to end."

Strong points, said the Trojan coach, are "Having two very good quarterbacks, our offensive tackle situation where we have four good ones, and tight end, where we have two excellent players."

McKay tabbed Oregon State as a conference dark-horse. "The Beavers came on strong late in the 1970 season and most of their players are back."

Although the usual pre-season tensions are beginning to build McKay demonstrated he hasn't lost his sense of humor. When asked if a 6-4-1 repeat would be considered a disaster, he quipped:

"When Jess Hill retires as Co-athletic director in January and I take over, I might say that's a pretty good season."

The Buffalo Bills and Erie County reached agreement Friday on a lease for the county's proposed football — only stadium in the suburb of Orchard Park.

Owner Ralph Wilson says the two sides agreed on a 25-year lease for an 80,000-seat stadium.

County legislation had approved a $20.5 million bond resolution for construction of the open-air stadium but development had been held up until a satisfactory lease was negotiated.

HEAVYWEIGHT champion Joe Frazier is close to a 15-round fight against George Chuvalo in Montreal in October or November while waiting for a rematch with Muhammad Ali.

"We done beat everybody so why not start over?" said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham. "We hope to get a $200,000 guarantee."

Frazier has been idle since decisioning Ali March 8. He stopped Chuvalo in four rounds back in 1967.

Specifically he accused the Bombers of greasing their horses, the better to elude onrushing defenders.

Winnipeg offensive coach Dave Smith admitted that the shoulders of linemen's jerseys were treated with something slippery. Guards Larry Stagle and Bob Luck were reported to have used the stuff.

Snead finds a home with the Vikings

Associated Press

Minnesota coach Bud Grant won't say who the Vikings' No. 1 quarterback is even as the club nears the end of its exhibition season in tonight's game at Denver. But what Grant won't say the statistics do — Norm Snead is No. 1.

For despite Grant's reluctance to reveal his selection, it appears obvious that the Vikings will be making their bid for another Western Division title in the National Football Conference with Snead at the helm.

Going into the game at Denver, one of 11 on the National Football League's weekend schedule, Snead appears to be well ahead of last year's No. 1, Gary Cuozzo, and punter-passer Bob Lee in a three-way battle.

The 32-year-old, 11-year veteran acquired from Philadelphia has completed 27 of 36 passes for 357 yards and three touchdowns. Lee ranks second with 16 of 33 for 297 yards and three touchdowns and Cuozzo brings up the rear with 25 of 52 for 276 yards and just one touchdown.

Besides adding Snead to a ground-oriented offense now emphasizing the pass, the Vikings also have another pass-catching weapon to complement Gene Washington in Al Denison, acquired from Denver in an off season transaction.

Denison, who has caught eight passes for 136 yards and a 19.5 average, likely will start against his former Bronco teammates, who will attempt to gain their first victory after three losses while the Vikings seek to extend their unbeaten streak to five.

Tonight's schedule also offers two other attractions of a headline nature, St. Louis meeting Kansas City in a game to be nationally televised (Channel 4, 5:30 p.m.), and a doubleheader at Cleveland that matches Pittsburgh vs. the New York Jets and the New York Giants vs. the Browns.

In other games, Buffalo is at Detroit, Washington at Miami, Green Bay at Cincinnati, Chicago at Houston, Philadelphia at New Orleans and San Francisco at Oakland. There is one Sunday game, Atlanta at New England.

LEIPZIG, Germany (AP) — East Germany's Roland Matthes set a world record in the 200-meter backstroke, but American swimmers won 12 of the 14 events to give the United States a 103-61 lead after the first dual swimming meet ever held between the United States and East Germany.

Matthes, swimming before a capacity crowd of 6,700 at Leipzig's Outdoor Swimming Stadium, covered the 200 meters in 2:05.6, lowering his previous world standard by .5 seconds and defeating Gary Hall of Garden Grove by .9 seconds.

Except for Matthes' world record, American swimmers completely dominated the meet. Ann Simmons, Lakewood, set a U.S. record by winning the women's 800 meter free style in 9:04.9. She defeated Gudrun Wegener of East Germany, whose second place time of 9:17.1 was good for a European record.

2 sophomores battling for Ole Miss QB post

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Billy Kinard, the man who succeeded Johnny Vaught as head football coach at Ole Miss, confessed Friday that he did not know eight days before the season begins who would succeed Archie Manning as the Rebel quarterback.

"I'm not trying to evade the question," Kinard told the "Skywriters," a group of sportswriters and sportscasters touring the Southeastern Conference.

"We honestly don't know which way we are going. We're going to go with the man that moves the football for us."

However, reading between the lines, it appeared that Kinard was leaning toward two sophomores, Norris Weese and Kenney Lyons, with Weese maybe having the edge because the 6-foot-1, 195-pound former redshirt from Chalmette, La., is a sprint-out passer out of the Manning mold.

Shug Chumbler, a senior who was back-up quarterback to Manning the past two seasons, suffered a head injury that required eight stitches several days ago and apparently is running third at present in the battle for the post.

"We're fortunate in having three fine youngsters at quarterback," Kinard said. "While I'll have to admit that we don't have an Archie Manning, I'm glad these three boys are playing for us."

The Skywriters began pressuring two Ole Miss players — tight end Jim Poole and tailback Randy Reed — as to who they thought might be the Rebel quarterback and that brought Dick Wood, the man who coaches the quarterbacks, to his feet.

"Weese and Lyons are similar and real close," said Wood. "Chumbler has experience over these boys but he doesn't sprint and roll out as well as the other boys do."

"We'll pick a starter before next week's game (with Cal State Long Beach)," Wood continued. "He may not be the right one. But we don't know who is best at this stage."

"You've got to remember that an Archie Manning comes along to a school maybe once in a lifetime. But you don't have to be an Archie Manning to be a winning quarterback."

Wood said Manning had more speed than either Weese or Lyons but indicated the Rebels will run the same sort of sprint-out offense they ran with Manning.

First-inning runs make win
easy for Mets

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Cleon Jones doubled in two runs and scored on Donn Clendenon's single in the first inning before a man was retired and the New York Mets coasted to a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phils Friday night behind the 10-hit pitching of Ray Sadecki.

Bud Harrelson opened the first inning attack on loser Ken Reynolds (4-7) by beating out a bunt single, and Tim Lincecum followed with a single to center. Jones doubled in two runs, and Donn Clendenon singled home Jones.

DENNIS THE MENACE

By Hank Ketchum

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your Birthday Today: This will be remembered as a "payoff" year in which your own and others' chickens all come home to roost, in dramatic episodes. These events won't always be pleasant but will usually have constructive final results. Today's natives are imaginative and romantic, with talents for music, poetry, rhythmic skills.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Sunday gives you a chance to get together with neighbors and iron out differences, perhaps put together a community project. Do your share in a group expression of faith.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): It seems you must begin a long series of actions hindered by resistance, delays, for which you may expect little or no reward.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Discretion is the sensitive spot. Your tendency is to talk, to divulge all the secrets, including some that really aren't. Try concentrating on listening.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your reaction determine whether a small question builds into a major issue. None of the trifling quirks of circumstance interfere with your attention.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Social contacts carry added meaning this Sunday. Even a long-established relationship encounters a vivid streak of discovery and surprise.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Give yourself a special break today, but no excess creature comforts or needless excitement. Labor hours are especially open for meditation.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Patience, rather than hostility—know what you want and that you must wait to achieve it. Take your regular part in community weekend customs.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Frequent and obedient are not the task to take. Get down to essentials and do what you should to settle matters in your own domain. Then you can face the world with a broad smile.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Going along with the group seems more to your advantage this Sunday. Romance promises to break the surface, so don't be surprised if emotional interests attract your attention.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Short-range plans and schemes tend to fall thru. Unexpected people and circumstances are a hindrance. Keep in mind long-range objectives.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Developments exceed, in some ways, even your most modern theories. Moving with the spirit of the times gives you something extra to do.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Reorganize personal affairs, make changes in home situations. Domestic concerns benefit from general good will, exceptional cooperation.

MOUNTAIN PARADISE . . . Big Bear Lake Coupled With Ponderosa Heights

First opening of Ponderosa Heights which features choice parcels of recreational land overlooking Big Bear Lake and abutting a national forest, has been announced by Sterling Allen of Allen-Hunter and Associates, Inglewood.

The prime location of Ponderosa Heights and the natural beauty of the Big Bear Lake area combine to make the development one of the very few properties on the market that provides year around recreation yet is within a two-hour drive from Los Angeles and Orange Counties, say the developers.

Initial increment of Ponderosa Heights consists of 131 lots from 7,000 square feet, some with lake view, Allen said. Prices begin at $3,495 and assistance will be given to those who wish to build cabins on their property.

ALLEN said more than 50 plans for construction of cabins and mountain homes on Ponderosa Heights are available.

The diversity of these plans assures each owner of individual style and taste in keeping with the overall natural beauty of the area.

Ponderosa Heights is part of the Moonridge development, located on the south shore of Big Bear Lake.

Access is by paved county road and utilities include water, gas, electricity and telephone service.

Individual privacy and the retention of the natural beauty of the area, which abounds in wildlife, is assured at Ponderosa Heights as the property abuts the San Bernardino National Forest and other wilderness area almost half the size of Rhode Island.

BIG BEAR Lake is one of Southern California's most popular all-year mountain resorts.

In addition to boating, water skiing and an ample supply of wily, big rainbow trout, it offers plenty of hiking, horseback riding, golfing and a variety of winter sports.

The lake, now more than seven miles long and one and a half miles across at its widest point, will be maintained at its present level, Allen said.

Ponderosa Heights is studded with oak, cedar and pine trees. The 6,800 to 7,000-foot elevation provides cooling summer breezes.

The development is located in some of the most scenic country in California, although Ponderosa Heights is only three miles from the town of Big Bear Lake.

"IT IS rare that a recreational property overlooks a lake and, at the same time, abuts a national forest," commented Allen.

"Despite these outstanding recreational facilities, Ponderosa Heights is one of the few remaining properties within easy driving distance of Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Allen said information on Ponderosa Heights can be obtained by writing: 6818 S. La Cienega Blvd., Inglewood.

LONG BEACH, CALIF., SATURDAY, SEPT. 4, 1971

The rent freeze announced by President Nixon, while covering the bulk of units, is not quite as deep as first indicated, Gene Hoffman, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said this week.

As interpretations of the President's order and the law on which it was based the office of Emergency Preparedness and the Cost of Living Council during the first hectic days, allowances are being made for special situations, Hoffman explained.

From conferences with these governmental units, the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with which the Long Beach Board is affiliated, has compiled a list of questions and answers:

Q. WE ARE considering leasing an apartment which has been vacant for several months while repairs were made. The rent we have been quoted is higher than that paid by the last tenants. Shouldn't the rent be the same as it was when the apartment was last occupied?

A. No. The rent is frozen, but at the level for comparable units in similar condition of repair and improvement which could be more than paid by the previous tenants.

Q. WE HAVE a vacation home which we rented for two months last year at $300 a month. We have a chance to rent it this year for $350 a month. May we charge the higher rent under the freeze?

A. The President's executive order states that if no transactions did occur. Thus, the rent would be frozen at the $300 per month level.

Q. I MADE substantial improvements in an apartment I own and have increased the rent on Sept. 1 in consideration of the improvements. May the rent increase go into effect?

A. Yes. While the rent is still subject to the freeze order, you may increase to levels comparable to other units with similar improvements.

Q. THE LEASE on my apartment, which I have occupied for a year, states that I must pay 40 per cent of any increase in real estate taxes on the property. These taxes are to go up on Oct. 1. Can the owner enforce the increase provision of the lease?

A. Yes. The rent may be increased to reflect increases in real estate taxes.

Q. In some areas of the country, there has been a surplus of apartment units. As a result, rents have been reduced. Are the rents frozen at the lower level, even though higher rates were charged as recently as May, 1970?

A. The basic law provides that the President may issue an order stabilizing rent at levels "not less than those prevailing on May 25, 1970." It would appear, therefore, that the rent on such units could be increased to the higher level during the freeze period.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Miami inventor says he has succeeded in running standard Detroit-built automobiles on hydrogen more cheaply than on gasoline and with no air polluting exhaust emissions.

Morris Klein has been running a 1968 Chevrolet 6-cylinder delivery van and a 1970 Ford V-8 station wagon on hydrogen for eight months.

Enough hydrogen to drive either car 100 miles costs only about 40 cents, Klein says.

He intends to enter a hydrogen-powered car in the 1972 Clean Air Race sponsored by Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He expects ultimately to generate hydrogen on the road from a fuel tank in the car filled with water.

AUTOMOTIVE spokesmen in Detroit told United Press International that a reciprocating engine can run on hydrogen but raised several objections to the fuel.

A research team at the University of Miami headed by Prof. Robert Adt Jr., a mechanical engineer, is working under a grant from an anonymous donor, to determine the best way to supply hydrogen to fuel an auto engine.

The implications are important. If Klein's system should prove successful, it might solve the automobile exhaust emission problem at no great cost to the automakers or the public.

It also could help solve the nation's energy problems. Hydrogen is the most abundant source of energy in nature, making up about two thirds of all fresh and salt water.

IT is extracted from water by electrolysis and other processes or obtained as a byproduct of petroleum refining or of the production of nuclear generated electric power.

If automotive vehicles could be switched over to run on hydrogen, vast amounts of petroleum could be diverted to petrochemicals, plastics, man-made fibers and other uses.

Klein says converting a standard auto engine to hydrogen fuel merely requires the introduction of the gas into the cylinders by means of tubes, bypassing the fuel pump and carburetor.

On his Ford station wagon, Klein can switch back and forth between gasoline and hydrogen fuel by turning a knob.

The carburetor and fuel pump have been removed from Klein's Chevrolet. It runs on hydrogen only.

"WHEN I started working on this project, I thought there must be catches in it," professor Adt told UPI. "but I haven't been able to find one so far."

The main problem he said, is how to carry the highly explosive fuel.

Klein uses ordinary welder's pressure tanks on the test cars. Adt thinks the ideal method would be to install a hydrogen generator in the car so that hydrogen would be extracted only in small amounts as actually required by the engine.

The car's fuel tank would be filled with inert water.

Factory-built housing expected to triple by 1975

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Factory-built housing in California will increase threefold by 1975, says the director of the State Department of Housing and Community Development.

Donald F. Pinkerton believes the 10,000 factory-built units expected to be produced this year will jump to 30,000 in four years.

His report, "Market Aggregation in California — the Supply Side of the Factory-Built Housing Market," deals primarily with the supply side of such housing.

His new report is based on a survey carried out with the cooperation of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, San Francisco.

This year, Pinkerton says, factory-built housing in California will constitute about 6 per cent of the total housing production. The 30,000 units expected to be produced in 1975 will represent about 12 per cent of a total housing development, he adds.

The producers represented in Pinkerton's report have allocated two-thirds of their production to single-family units, with an average of 1129 square feet and at a $9.04 per square foot factory price.

To this must be added cost of delivery, installation and the building site.

Hottest market

Housing demand in the Los Angeles market is being deflected into Orange County.

As a result, Orange County is one of the country's hottest markets and appears headed for its second best housing year, while Los Angeles County is one of only three major markets which showed declines in this year's first half.

(The others were Boston and Seattle.)

The rate of housing activity increased sharply in both counties between the first and second quarters — 35 per cent in Los Angeles County and 50 per cent in Orange County — and further increases are indicated for the remainder of the year.

These are some of the findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's semiannual survey, U.S. Housing Markets, published this week. It compares Los Angeles with 17 other major markets nationwide.

In both counties, the Advance report says, growth is concentrated in the 1-to-4 family home market. Apartment building slackened off and is expected to remain slow through the rest of the year.

A total of 19,948 permits were issued in Los Angeles County during the first half, a six per cent drop from the same period a year ago.

House permits came to 7,210, a 32 per cent increase from last year. Apartments accounted for 12,738 permits, a 20 per cent decline.

In Orange County, a total of 16,526 permits were issued, 47 per cent more than a year ago. Home permits increased 145 per cent to 10,434 and apartment permits declined 13 per cent to 6,092.

Second quarter activity in Orange County reached an annual rate of 35,500 permits. It's been higher than that for a full year, only once before, in the fabulous 1963 boom.

In proportion to population, that's a rate of 24 permits per 1,000, making Orange County one of the half-dozen hottest markets in the nation.

Advance area manager Don Manginelli reports "Four-plexes starting at $15,000 and condominiums at $25,000 to $27,000 are strong sellers.

"But in the higher-priced brackets, demand has been soft," Manginelli says. "Some builders in Los Angeles County have deferred new construction while selling off inventory."

Nearly 10 per cent of Los Angeles County starts have been under the subsidized FHA 235 program.

Demand is strong for existing homes in well-located residential suburbs, the area manager says. Prices are up three to four per cent.

Less than capacity

American industry — covering manufacturing, mining and utilities — was operating at only 75.5 per cent of capacity in July, down 1.5 percentage points from June, according to preliminary estimates the Department of Economics.

Influenced by the recent drop off in operating rates, along with other indicators, President Nixon's current economic program is designed to provide future strength in the industrial sectors of the economy.

The July rate was 4 points below a year ago.

Manufacturing was 1 percentage point lower in July than in June, the utilities were off .5 point and mining plummeted 11.5 points, because of strikes.

Manufacturing operations at 75.5 per cent of capacity were 3.5 points short of a year ago. The 70.5 per cent utilization rate of the durable goods industries was off 1 point between June and July and remained 5.5 points less than a year ago. Nondurable goods at 82 per cent were off .5 point from June and from July 1970.

The automobile industries continued as the strongest durable goods manufacturing industry in July, operating at full capacity, with a 13 point spread over July 1970. The transportation equipment industry, other than autos, continued at the bottom of the durables group operating only 49.5 per cent of its capacity.

Contracting up

July was another big contracting month for new construction work, according to the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

The firm, a leading source of information on the construction market, reported a total of $7,669,734,000 in contracts for future construction was posted in July, a gain of 24 per cent over the value of work started in the same month last year.

Office-bank building set for Costa Mesa

Ground will be broken soon on a $1½ million, six-story office building at Bristol and Sunflower in Costa Mesa, it was revealed by Gerald J. Chazan, builder-owner.

The 60,000-square-foot reinforced concrete office and bank building will be located within the South Coast Financial Center and directly across from the South Coast Plaza Shopping Center, both Segerstrom family developments.

The building will contain exposed concrete columns, architectural projections, and recessed solar bronze glass with bronzed aluminum frames.

contract value was 151 in the latest month, up slightly from June's 147, and much improved over the low 117 level which opened the year.

(The Dodge Index uses 1967 as its 100 base.)

"July's heavy flow of new construction projects was pretty much an instant replay of June," said George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist of Dodge.

"It was a month when things were moving sideways in the building markets as both housing and nonresiden-

TELLER FOR DAY

Mrs. Dorothea Robertson, First Western Bank teller at Long Beach Pacific Office, was grand prize winner in employee contest. Her prize: having executive vice president-director Robert Brown award corsage—and perform her duties for one day.

White Front picks Glenn

Bill Glenn has been appointed manager of the new White Front Home Mart in Long Beach, according to Walter Craig, chief executive officer of White Front Stores.

Glenn's transfer from management of the Everett, Wash., store to Long Beach "points up the importance of the new merchandising concept" scheduled to begin in the $3 million facility here Thursday, Craig said.

Glenn has been a key executive with White Front since joining the organization as merchandise manager of the Ontario store in 1966.

"His excellent grasp of merchandising and operational procedure will give the executive leadership needed to launch a totally new Home Mart concept in White Front's Long Beach store," Craig said.

It's a pilot merchandising plan for eliminating ready-to-wear and allowing greater concentration on the more than 60 other departments of the store.

When Glenn was at Ontario, he became operations manager for that outlet plus stores in San Bernardino and Covina.

Later, he was transferred to San Jose California, as senior hard lines merchandise manager.

He then was assigned to the Seattle area in the same position, awaiting promotion to Everett.

A Californian for years, he was affiliated with several California chains. His career in retailing began in Boise, Idaho, where he was born and raised.

What Realty Boards Are Doing

LONG BEACH

Jack Krueger, September program chairman, announced the program at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday at the Queen's Restaurant will be a panel relative to City College real estate courses.

Participating in the panel will be Dick Jones, Jaye Hunter, Jim Hoffman and Dan Delaney.

Loren Brown, membership chairman, announced that 32 sales people, three non-employed realtor members and three employing Realtor members will be inducted.

DOWNEY

At the annual election of officers and directors, Helen B. Wheelus was elected president of the Downey Board of Realtors for 1972.

Mrs. Wheelus will succeed Maxine Gaudette. The president-elect has been affiliated with the Downey Board of Realtors for 17 years. The past eight years, she has been owner of her own realty office, Wheelus Realty, 10029 Tecum Road.

Also elected to serve for 1972 are Mary Sparks, first vice president; Henry Alensworth, second vice president, and James W. Hartley, treasurer.

Directors during 1972 and 1973 are Lee Bucholz and Ellen Martin.

tial construction held the strong gains they made the month before."

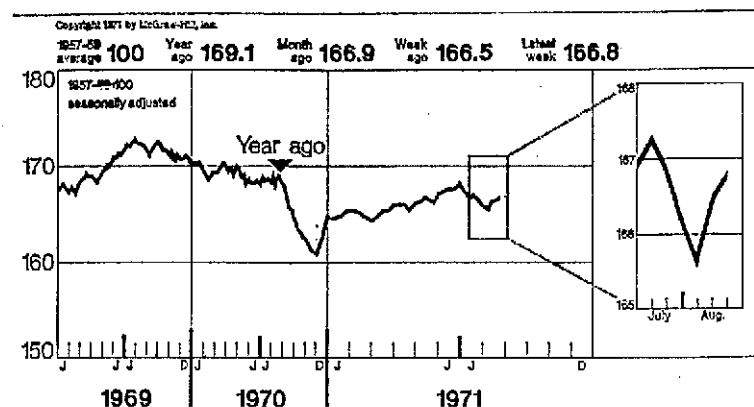

Commenting on the impact the President's new economic program is likely to have on construction demand in the near future, Christie believes the program will provide little additional stimulation to building in the months immediately ahead.

He expects that by mid-1972, however, the incentives to business investment and consumer spending now going into effect will give an extra lift to industrial and commercial building.

These areas, the economist noted, are among the few building markets currently showing any weakness.

"This expected improvement of industrial and commercial building," said Christie, "will be delayed since it will have to develop indirectly from a general acceleration of the economy's recovery. There's nothing in the new program that specifically favors construction."

The index posted another gain in the latest week, reflecting gradual recovery from the partial strike in railroads and a slow recovery in steel. Steel output is only half the level reached during the hedge buying period last spring. Auto output picked up as the 1972 models began to come off the assembly lines. Electricity and crude oil refinery runs increased, while intercity truck shipments declined.

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY

Look for more mergers

More mergers between industrial companies have become a real possibility.

The business magazine, Industry Week, based its report on the thinking of a number of industry analysts and company executives.

They detect what they believe is a wider latitude of circumstances under which industrial mergers could take place in the eyes of the U.S. Dept. of Justice. Much of their surmise arises from the decision of the Justice Dept. not to oppose the recently consummated merger of Granite City Steel Co., Granite City, Ill., into National Steel Corp., Pittsburgh.

The federal agency declined to say whether specific new guidelines have been established on mergers, many of which it has opposed in the past except where the "failing company" principle applied. A department spokesman said only that it decided not to challenge the National-Granite City merger on the facts and circumstances of that particular case.

Those who believe more merger attempts are coming point out that Granite City Steel would not come under the "failing company" principle as it has been applied in other instances.

A PITTSBURGH ANALYST SAID: "There are going to be a lot of people talking to each other fast, starting with the specialty steel people."

Hubbert firm now in Tustin

Hubbert & Associates, Advertising & Public Relations, has moved its main office to 642 S. "B" Street, Tustin, it was announced by Robert C. Hubbert, president of the advertising and public relations firm.

At the same time, Hubbert revealed the organization also had opened a new branch office at 155 N. La Peer Drive, Los Angeles.

"By establishing our headquarters in Tustin, we are now in a better position to service the advertising and public relations needs of our clients in Orange County, and at the same time by retaining a Los Angeles office we will now have the capability of servicing the entire Southern California area," Hubbert said.

Rockland moves to Torrance

Rockland Institute (formerly Granite Computer Institute) is relocating its computer programmer's training school from Gardena to Torrance. The new location, at 433 Alaska, is being leased from Cosmo-dyne Corp.

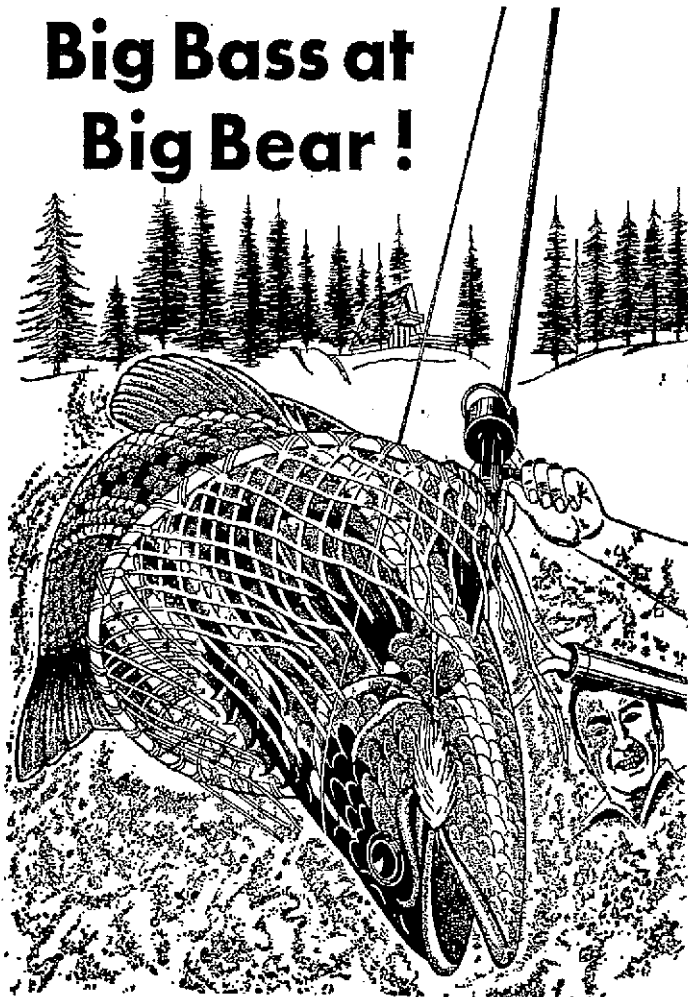

According to Rhine Meyering, director of operations for Rockland West Corporation, owners of the Institute, "the new location provides just the kind of modern air-conditioned facilities we have been looking for."

STUDENTS at the Institute are trained in the skills necessary to work effectively as computer programmers. Courses are offered both day and evening with new classes starting at frequent intervals.

Rockland Institute is accredited by The Accrediting Commission for Business Schools, and approved by the State of California Dept. of Education, the Veterans' Administration and the U. S. Department of Immigration.

Leinsdorf returns to the Bowl

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

After a 10-year absence Erich Leinsdorf returned to Hollywood Bowl Thursday night for the first of three consecutive appearances. In both its musical materials and in the manner of its execution, his Schubert-Strauss program had to be welcome.

But it was an odd combination: Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony followed by the same composer's final chamber work, "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen" for voice, clarinet and piano, and some 65 minutes of excerpts from "Der Rosenkavalier," including the entire opening scene and the complete finale.

Because the singers involved were adequate but undistinguished, the evening's high point occurred first on the program.

Here, Leinsdorf caused the Los Angeles Philharmonic to give a pointed but orthodox reading of the B minor Symphony, one strong in detail yet perfectly forthright. The playing was balanced, a little understated, straight-ahead in matters of tempo and climax. Among other inspired solo moments, those contributed by Sinclair Lott (horn) and Michele Zukovsky (clarinet) were particularly cherishable.

"The Shepherd on the Crag" is a handsome gem beloved of many Schubertians. Our disappointment in it this time around had nothing to do with either the outdoor setting or the size of Hollywood Bowl; what was lacking was any sense of projection or delight coming from the three performers — Evelyn Mandac, the young soprano from the Philippines and Juilliard, Kalman Bloch, and Leinsdorf himself.

EVELYN MANDAC

ERICH LEINSDOF

Miss Mandac is a bland singer with what seems to be a dull voice. Here, and in the post-intermission "Rosenkavalier" pieces, she hit every high note squarely on the flat side, demonstrated only minimal temperament, and treated every text indifferently. Bloch played colorlessly; at the piano, Leinsdorf led, but did not blend.

The orchestral playing in the Strauss excerpts was rather immaculate, and wonderfully varied in dynamics — would that the Philharmonic used this palette every night of its year. As in the "Unfinished," soft passages were genuinely quiet, not just restrained. And there was, throughout, a feeling of concentrated self-listening.

Helen Vanni (the Marchallini), Tatiana Troyanos (Octavian) and Evelyn Mandac (Sophie), each seemed thoroughly practiced in the niceties of her part and responsive to Leinsdorf's reading. Yet the sum total of this solid professionalism still fell short of really compelling vocalism and dramatic urgency. Here were all of the climaxes, but none of the ecstasy, of "Rosenkavalier." Another disappointment.
